They Burned Up Airwaves

By LYNN MULVANEY

Name-calling jolted Sunday afternoon airwaves as Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and New York City Councilman Theodore Weiss met in debate over the "Dump Johnson" movement.

Tagging Weiss as "anti-American," Resnick came on the receiving end of an equally cutting blow when the West End Democrat called him a "red-baiting . . . Joe Mc Carthy" with "delusions of grandeur."

What started out as a gentlemanly discussion between the two Democrats on the possibility of dumping Johnson and giving the party's nomination to Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy became in reality a hot-tempered foray in which both the hawk and the dove came up somewhat bruised.

Resnick, throwing the first punch, accused the anti-Johnson forces of dirty pool—"picking on the President when he's in no position to yell back." The Ellenville Congressman asked the doves to pick on him instead, by challenging his campaign for the Senate nomination, saying "I'm waiting."

When Resnick accused Weiss, leader of the pro-McCarthy Coalition for a Democratic Alternative (CDA) of cheering "Mao Tse Tung, Ho Chi Minh and Fidel Castro," Weiss countered calling the congressman "a master of distortion."

"You must be suffering some sort of complex," charged Weiss when the congressman asked that his candidacy be challenged. Anyway, Weiss concluded, "You probably will not be a candidate" after primary day. The two appeared on a pre-taped CBS show, "Public Hearing."

Resnick repeated his support of the Johnson administration, compared it to that of Franklin D. Roosevelt and said the present administration's "only serious bone of contention" is Johnson's foreign policy.

Weiss, who has sought unsuccessfully for a seat in Congress as a Reform Democrat, said the dump Johnson—promote McCarthy movement is gaining momentum. He said Johnson "betrayed" the Democratic Party and its principles by not keeping a 1964 campaign pledge not to extend the war.

Resnick, who announced his intention to run in the June 18 primary to try to become Democratic opponent of Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, volunteered the "dump Johnson" movement is "doomed to abysmal failure."

Weiss said that if Johnson is the Democratic nominee in the November election, he would "risk doing to the Democratic Party what former Sen. Barry Goldwater did to the Republicans in 1964."

While in Vietnam recently, Resnick, who rode into office on Johnson's coattails in the Fire Tragedies Hit the Area

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Fires highlighted the tragic weekend news in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Two children perished in a two-alarm fire that made 15 families homeless and injured several persons in Beacon Sunday night.

An Ohayo Mountain art residence at Glenford was razed by flames Saturday night.

Five firemen were injured and six families were forced to evacuate their homes in a three-alarm fire in Poughkeepsie last night.

A well-known go-go night club on Route 44, Town of Poughkeepsie was leveled by fire early today.

Beacon Police Chief Samuel Woods said the bodies of Roderick Miles, 2, and Ronald Latimore, 5, were recovered from the debris of a fire-swept 2½-story frame apartment house at 78 Ferry Street early today.

Three firemen and three residents were injured in the fire which broke out shortly before 9 p. m. yesterday in the southern Dutchess county city. Firemen and police raked through smoldering ruins in search for a third child who had not been acounted for immediately but police later reported she was found unharmed at the home of a neighbor.

Unique Form

Firemen from the West Hurley Fire Department in command of Chief Daniel Fochi aided by volunteers from a Woodstock company Saturday night waged a losing battle in sub-freezing weather as fire destroyed the highly controversial edifice built on the Glenford side of the Ohayo Mountain by Clarence Schmidt.

Firemen responded to an alarm shortly before 8:25 p. m. Saturday and on arrival at the scene they found the structure, which had attracted national attention because of its unique "architectural form," completely engulfed in flames. Fire officials said that within minutes fire spread rapidly through the building which was described as a "seven story" structure.

Chief Fochi and other company officers from West Hurley said that only "an open pit" remains of the fantastic building which definitely lacked architectural form. It had taken Schmidt, the bearded 69-year-old patriarch of Ohayo Mountain, more than a quarter of a century to build the edifice which had caused a great controversy and in 1964 was the object of litigation in the State Supreme Court during which neighbors sought to have Schmidt evicted and the structure demolished.

The building, constructed by Schmidt who was known to many area residents as the Old Man of the Ohayo Mountain, was considered by its owner as mountain art, although experts disagreed on the artistic merits of the builder's architectural form.

Furniture, old tires, auto parts, rolls of tar paper and similar items which made up the structure of the building, burned rapidly despite efforts of firefighters who remained at the scene until after 2 a. m., Sunday.

While the fire was raging through the building, a hose-line on the old Glenford fire truck burst and threw Volunteer Fireman Calvin Bruckner to the ground. He received an injury of a hand.

Seldom Welcomed

In recent years hundreds of area residents, curious to view the strange appearing structure, went to Ohayo Mountain although they were seldom welcomed by Schmidt, who at one time purchased a shotgun to protect his controversial, fantastic sculpture by force, if necessary.

The origin of the fire was not learned, authorities said.

Five firemen were injured and six families were forced to evacuate their apartment homes Sunday when a three-alarm fire raged through the J. Arnold Wood Co. jewelry store at 357 Main Street, Poughkeepsie and burned through walls into two other stores. Flames swept up through the upper floors and mushroomed through six apartments.

Fire Chief Irving Merrick said Deputy Chiefs Henry Van Norstrand and John Nugent were in command of the city's full force of paid firefighters. The fire was discovered shortly before 5 p. m. by police who investigated a burglar alarm that sounded at the jewelry store in the heart of the city's business district. Police discovered the store filled with smoke and fire burning up the back of the building.

Total Loss

The jewelry store was a total loss, Chief Merrick said, and the apartments were burned out. Heavy damage was reported in the adjacent store formerly the Bevier & Yoakum pharmacy and a doughnut shop next door.

Paid firemen injured at the scene were Michael Scheftic, burns of the face; Robert Beverlin, cuts of the left hand and Carl Mannain, minor burns. Volunteers injured were Harold Clinton who slipped on the ice and sustained rib injuries, and Emory Dosio. They all were treated at Vassar Hospital.

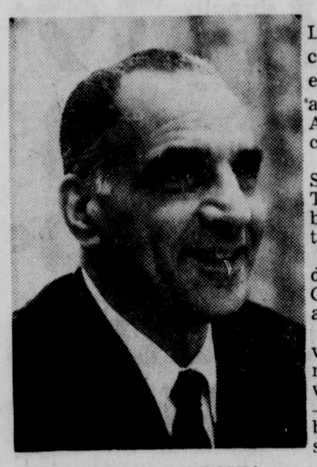

The apartments were occupied by Stephen Rizzo, Frederick Van Boluhuis and mother; Joanne E. Mullally, Sylvia McElheny, Barbara Litts and son Joseph Hart.

During the height of the fire units from nearby communities assisted the city firemen. Officials said some smoke damage was reported in the branch of the Marine Midland and National Bank.

Arlington and Pleasant Valley fire companies fought flames in 10-degree weather early today that destroyed the Buccaneer Restaurant, a go-go night club formerly The Dells on Dutchess Turnpike. The fire was discovered by Town Patrolman James Burke at 2:25 a. m. and he summoned firemen to the scene.

Police said the building, which was the scene of a ruckus among teenagers Thanksgiving Eve, which caused the closing of the place by police, was a total loss.

Travia Does Blaine Flip-Flop

ANTHONY J. TRAVIA

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's top-ranking Democrat suddenly threw his influence today against any immediate effort to repeal the Blaine Amendment ban on aid to church-operated schools.

In a surprise move, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia told The Associated Press he did not believe the Legislature should take up the issue this year.

Repeal of Blaine and other disputed changes in the State Constitution, he said, "should be allowed to bake for a while."

"Yes," he said, in an interview, "personally I'm still for repealing Blaine. But I think it would create more animosities — do more harm than good — by repeating that battle so soon."

Since Travia wields almost life-or-death influence over legislation in his house, his new position seriously jeopardizes prospects for action on Blaine at the 1968 session.

His house faced a battle over efforts to streamline the committee system. Republican Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea Jr. vowed to press for immediate reforms. Travia said he had similar changes in mind, but he anticipated adverse reaction by his Democratic colleagues.

Travia's remarks on constitutional changes represented a major switch from the posture he assumed last November, after New York voters rejected the new charter drafted by the State Constitutional Convention — over which he presided.

He said then that he would ask the Assembly to approve all of the major proposals of the convention and submit them to the electorate as separate questions.

Under the legislative procedure for altering the Constitution, amendments may be submitted to the voters after they are approved by two separately elected Legislatures.

This means that Blaine repeal and other questions could be placed on the ballot in November 1969, if initial action is taken this year. Otherwise, the earliest submission would be November 1971.

Travia said he thought it would be all right to act this year on generally agreed matters, such as reorganization of the state government.

"But," he continued, "It's too soon to go back to Blaine and some of those other things. The people made their opinion clear. I think they wouldn't mind if we restudied them for a while."

Fourth Heart Transplant

Californian Doing 'Quite Well'

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — With the transplanted heart of a housewife sustaining him, Mike Kasperak is reported to be doing "quite well," fully conscious and responsive.

Kasperak, a 54-year-old former steelworker from nearby East Palo Alto, was dying of heart disease Saturday night when Dr. Norman E. Shumway's surgical team at Stanford University School of Medicine operated on him. The doctors cut out his heart and implanted the heart of Virginia White, a 43-year-old Santa Clara woman who died of a stroke two hours before.

By Sunday morning Kasperak was conscious and able to move. Though he couldn't talk because of a tube in his throat helping him to breathe, doctors said he recognized his family.

Shumway said his patient knew he had a donated heart beating in his chest. It was one-third the size of the enlarged one that had been discarded, but it was performing well, Shumway said.

Blood pressure, pulse and body temperature were in a reasonable range, Dr. Donald C. Harrison, a cardiologist, told a news conference at Stanford Medical Center Sunday afternoon. Harrison said the heart output—amount of blood pumped—was 5.3 liters per minute, "almost normal for a man of Kasperak's size" when measured about 12 hours after the 4½-hour operation. The patient weighs 144 pounds. Mrs. White's weight was 120.

"His cardiogram looked quite good," Dr. Harrison said.

Dr. Shumway said Kasperak was expected to stay in the hospital many months for observation.

"This kind of followup is essential to the well being of the recipient," Dr. Shumway said. "We've reached first base perhaps, but the work is only beginning."

He stressed, "There is no way at this time to term the episode a success." But his and Harrison's elation were evident.

"The critical period lasts as long as the patient lives," Dr. Shumway said, explaining that the body could reject a foreign organ months or even years after it entered the body.

Kasperak is being given drugs to suppress the rejection mechanism.

Chronic viral myocarditis, an infection that the steelworker contracted perhaps 10 years ago, had been arrested, the doctors explained. But his heart muscle continued to turn into fibrous tissue and enlarge.

He had been suffering chronic heart failure for the past two years and was forced to quit work 18 months ago. A severe episode put him in the hospital three weeks ago.

Dr. Harrison said the patient "was in severe heart failure" at the time of the transplant, to which he had consented if a suitable donor could be found.

Mrs. White, a camper and water skier, had no history of serious illness before she suffered a stroke on Friday, the day after her 22nd wedding anniversary, and lapsed into a coma.

She was kept alive by artificial respiration and drugs but the family doctor and a specialist told her husband, Bill, there was no hope.

Bill (Charles W.) White and his wife had talked about heart transplantations a week before. "How marvelous," she said, "to be able to give someone else a chance to live."

White asked the doctors if there was some way his dying wife could help somebody else. Dr. Shumway said her heart might save Kasperak.

White, an electrical company administrator, talked it over with daughter Judy, 18, son Rickey, 12, and his wife's mother.

"They all said yes, and when I talked with Dr. Shumway about 30 minutes later, I said yes," White related.

"Knowing that she is helping another is easing our grief. She was the type who would want to do this," he said.

Doctors said they made every effort to keep Mrs. White alive but finally her heart and breathing halted and she had no reflexes. She had died.

The surgical team, previously alerted, transplanted her heart to Kasperak, the fourth human heart transplant. They transplanted one of her kidneys to another patient in the hospital.

The kidney transplant was successful, hospital spokesmen said, but they did not identify the recipient immediately.

Cong Tactics Aimed At Saigon Hamlets

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas seized a provincial capital only 21 miles northwest of Saigon early today and held it for nearly three hours.

The attack on Kheim Cuong, capital of Hau Nghia province, was the second daring raid by Communist troops on a government center close to Saigon in three days.

A government spokesman said about 700 guerrillas stormed Kheim Cuong behind a barrage of several hundred mortar rounds and they "were in the streets"

Three American advisers to the militia force in the town were killed at 3 a.m. and 14 were wounded. One officer said the advisers' compound apparently was a chief target.

The Viet Cong pulled out at 5:50 a.m. and evaded three battalions of government troops converging on the village from their bivouac areas three to five miles away.

The guerrillas left behind 19 dead comrades and five live ones who were captured, the spokesman said. Two of the captives were wounded.

The spokesman said nine policemen were killed and 10 were wounded, at least four civilians were killed and 16 wounded, and the garrison of some 100 militiamen suffered moderate casualties, meaning they were hit hard. Ten houses also were destroyed.

The guerrillas succeeded in hanging a large Viet Cong flag on the wall of the military advisers' compound, but it was quickly shot away.

Early Saturday soldiers of the 10th North Vietnamese battalion shot their way into the village of Tan Uyen 25 miles north of Saigon. In a five-hour rampage they killed eight soldiers and six civilians and wounded 35 soldiers and 11 civilians. South Vietnamese officers said 19 of the attackers were killed.

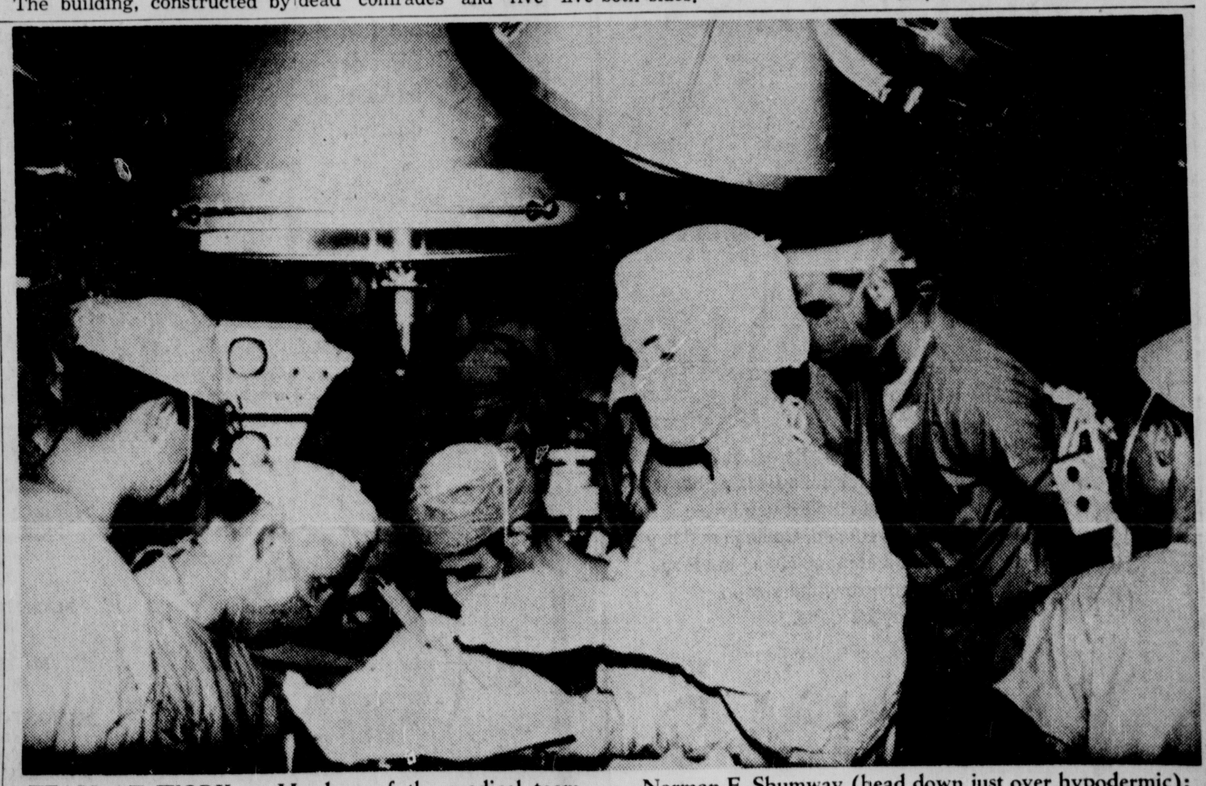

Over the weekend persistent Communist attacks on allied posts in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces led to hard fighting and heavy casualties on both sides.

The death toll reported from skirmishes and shellings Saturday and Sunday in the 1st Corps area was 296 Communists and 75 Americans killed, with 177 Americans wounded.

Elements of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade sustained the heaviest losses and scored the biggest success of all U.S. units in a series of clashes in the Que Son Valley Saturday. Twenty-nine GIs were reported killed in that fighting, but the Americans reported killing 128 enemy troops.

U.S. Marines, who take on most of the action against infiltrating North Vietnamese in the northern provinces, had their hands full all weekend repulsing Red ground assaults and ducking Red rocket barrages.

Units of the 4th Marine Regiment were maneuvering three miles northeast of Con Thien Sunday when they ran into North Vietnamese regulars. In five hours of fighting, the Leathernecks reported they had killed 28 of the Communists while suffering six killed and 31 wounded.

Elements of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade sustained the heaviest losses and scored the biggest success of all U.S. units in a series of clashes in the Que Son Valley Saturday. Twenty-nine GIs were reported killed in that fighting, but the Americans reported killing 128 enemy troops.

U.S. Marines, who take on most of the action against infiltrating North Vietnamese in the northern provinces, had their hands full all weekend repulsing Red ground assaults and ducking Red rocket barrages.

Units of the 4th Marine Regiment were maneuvering three miles northeast of Con Thien Sunday when they ran into North Vietnamese regulars. In five hours of fighting, the Leathernecks reported they had killed 28 of the Communists while suffering six killed and 31 wounded.

FATAL ON 209 — A Nassau man was killed and two women injured late Saturday afternoon when two cars met head-on on Route 209 in Hurley. Nineteen persons have met death on the accident-prone highway during the past three years. (Freeman photo by Fitzgerald).

Rt. 209 Claims First of 1968

By LYNN MULVANEY

Ulster County's first traffic fatality for 1968 occurred late Saturday afternoon on accident-prone Rt. 209 when a Nassau man, Hugh Ferguson, 48, was killed in a head-on collision.

Two Others Hurt

Two women, Ferguson's wife, Helen and Miss Phyllis Bulgatz of Kingston, both sustained injuries.

Mrs. Ferguson, 43, of Nassau, suffered lacerations of the forehead, nose and left knee. Miss Bulgatz, a physical therapist with the United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, received a fractured nose and lacerations of the mouth. Both were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance.

The fatality occurred at 4:55 p. m. about 2.8 miles south of Rt. 28 in the Town of Hurley.

The car, operated by Ferguson was traveling south on Rt. 209 when it swerved into the northbound lane and struck the Bulgatz vehicle head-on according to State Police at Lake Katrine.

Troopers Carl Van Wagenen, Wilmer Wiedemann and Joseph Ventriglia investigated.

In 1967, the first of 43 fatalities in Ulster County occurred on Jan. 14 when a Saugerties man met death in a head-on collision in Quarryville.

History of Accidents

Rt. 209, whose history of accidents is well-known, has piled up 19 deaths in the past three years. Ferguson's makes the twentieth. Personal injury accidents and property damage mishaps are recorded almost weekly on the route which runs between Ellenville and Hurley.

Brittle cold locked New York State in a glaze of ice and snow today and turned snow-covered highways into a motorist's nightmare.

The state accident death toll for the weekend which totaled 11, included eight lives lost in traffic mishaps and one more in fire.

A 27-year old student pilot was killed when a single engined training plane crashed between houses at Blauvelt, Rockland County. Dead was Susan Ann Balle, 27 of Brooklyn.

In Avon, Mrs. Nellie P. Flower, 69 of Hobart, died in a two-car collision on slippery Route 15.

Other deaths reported by community include: Lake George — Gail Hastings, 8, of Lake George, strangled when her clothing became entangled in a wire fence.

Huntington — Carol Gardner, 17, of Parsippany, N. J., in a four-car collision on Long Island's Northern State Parkway.

Buffalo—Donald J. Wick, 25, of Williamsville, car hit utility pole in Buffalo's suburb of Amherst.

New City — Adam Ozimkosky, 72 of New City, struck by auto while crossing street near his home.

New City—Estrid Kisse, 84, of New City, hit by car while crossing street.

The Weather Bureau forecast no immediate relief from the icy blast.

On Glenerie Crossings

Ulster, PSC to Huddle

Officials of the Ulster Town Board and the executive staff of the Public Service Commission will meet Tuesday morning at 11 to discuss possible safety devices for the two Glenerie Lake Park area railroad grade crossings.

Local Conference

The conference will be held in the office of town attorney Seymour Werbalowsky. Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, citing the many accidents that have occured at the crossings, said recently that town has has been interested for sometime in securing safety devices. Highway Superintendent Edgar P. Elliott will also attend.

At last week's meeting of the board it was agreed that the town take proper procedures to enable it to return land south of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge to the tax rolls. A parcel on either side of the bridge was removed from the rolls when the bridge was constructed. The town will continue to maintain the parcel to the north.

As in past meetings, a new trailer ordinance was considered. Councilman Anthony Cicoria was authorized to meet with trailer park owners and operators in order to secure their views and recommendations.

Cicoria and Councilman William D. Costello were also appointed to investigate junk yards in the town. Any accumulation of more than two cars comes under such classification.

The board also engaged the services of architect Arthur Milliken to design a complex for the town which would include an office building and a garage. Musialkiewicz explained that the present system of renting additional space for equipment was proving costly.

Drainage Reviewed

The drainage problem in the vicinity of Yarmouth Street and the Albany Avenue extension, about which Musialkewicz has sought the aid of the State Department of Transportation, was reviewed.

The supervisor reported that the state's district engineer stated in a letter Jan. 3 that "the solution is not simple to put into effect as it will require drainage easements, piping and trenching for a distance of about a mile in each of the two locations."

M. N. Sinacori's letter goes on to explain further "The start of such corrective work is dependent on determining a definite starting elevation at Albany Avenue. Due to the expense of this extensive drainage we cannot consider it until we can assure that it will be useable after the Albany Avenue Arterial is constructed.

"Our location study for this arterial has been started and once a theoretical grade is established we can start our plans for the drainage work.

Sinacori stressed that while the drainage can be accomplished prior to the arterial, it cannot progress until it is known what is to be done with Albany Avenue. "This in turn depends on a decision as to what we shall do on the Kingston North-South arterial between Rt. 32 and 199. The location of this arterial will influence the planning of the Albany Avenue project."

Varifab of High Falls Gets $750,000 Contract

Condec Corporation and its subsidiary, Varifab Inc., of High Falls, today announced that Varifab has received a contract from a major retail clothing chain to provide 500 Varifab Model 702 input machines for one-step recording of sales and inventory information.

The contract, amounting to more than $750,000, calls for two-stage delivery. Success of in-store testing and evaluation of initial units would be followed by full delivery to approximately 400 stores coast to coast.

Operating right on the selling floor, the new 10-key units, with solid state circuitry, will record and analyze sales, returns and inventory information on punch paper tapes which can be machine read, and directed to the retailing company's central data processing headquarters for high-speed transference to computer tapes. Varifab's Model 702 also has applications in warehousing and non-retailing operations.

Varifab's president, Gunther Newman, commenting on the contract, said: "The new units will give our customer what is believed to be the first use by a retail chain of a complete source data input system in all stores, providing one-step recording from the local operation to the central data processing function. All local and central transactions should be simplified by this equipment."

Besides the punch paper tape units, Varifab Inc. manufactures tab card data input equipment. This medium also transfers to computer tapes. Other Varifab products include specialized fabricated parts and electro-mechanical sub assemblies for nationally-known computer and office equipment manufacturers.

Varifab common stock is traded over the counter. Condec Corp., which owns more than 75 per cent of the outstanding stock of Varifab, manufactures through its other divisions and subsidiaries basic industrial and commercial products, including valves and electric motors, special purpose military vehicles, energy control and conversion instrumentation, and power generating equipment. Condec common stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Amy Bull Crist of Montgomery, district superintendent of schools for the Orange-Ulster sole supervisory district, will be the guest speaker at a coffee hour given by the Student Education Association of Orange County Community College on Tuesday, January 9. OCCC students interested in careers in education and college faculty and staff are invited to hear Mrs. Crist's talk at 11 a. m. in the Orange Hall lounge.

Hearing Set Tuesday on Rosendale Plan

The Rosendale Town Planning Board and the Rosendale Village Planning Board will hold a public meeting Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 8 o'clock in the Rosendale Village Firehall to report on the progress being made on a base map being prepared by the Brown and Anthony Consulting Planners who are making a survey for future orderly planning within the town and village.

Several maps will be shown together with other information of interest to residents of the township.

There will also be a report on the returned questionaires received from about 1,700 letters sent to residents residing in the town.

The returns exceeded in number almost 50 per cent of those expected.

Percy on '68 Prospects: Rocky Best Vote-Getter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., says Richard M. Nixon is probably the favorite presidential prospect of Republican professionals but New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller would attract more of the independent and Democratic votes needed for a White House drive.

Percy said Sunday Republican officials have known and worked with Nixon and "for better or for worse, he has been a solid Republican."

GOP Votes Not Enough

But, Percy added, the GOP presidential nominee won't be able to win the White House just with Republican votes.

"I think it is the general consensus now, even among many professional Republicans, that Mr. Rockefeller, if he could hold together the Republican party, would probably have the best chance to attract independents and Democrats,' ' Percy said. "He has the greatest appeal to them today but that is not what might happen in August at the convention."

As for himself, Percy said again he doesn't plan to be a candidate other than as a favorite son from Illinois.

Percy appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., like Percy an opponent of the administration's Vietnam war policy, said some antiwar senators aren't endorsing his announced presidential candidacy because they expect him to lose.

"I don't think that's the kind of excuse that really stands up very well," he said.

McCarthy plans to enter several Democratic primaries against President Johnson but there have been indications he is unhappy because Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., hasn't expressed support for him.

McCarthy said he doesn't expect antiwar senators up for re-election this year to get involved in choosing between him and Johnson. But he added that "so far as senators who have supported the position I take and who are not running, there is a little bit more of a burden upon them to take a stand." Kennedy is not up for re-election this year. He has opposed Johnson's war policy but also has said he will support the President for another term.

McCarthy was on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

12 PC for Eugene

The Gallup Poll reported that if McCarthy ran as an independent peace candidate in a four-way presidential race, he would get about 12 per cent of the vote. The poll matched McCarthy against Johnson, Nixon and former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who may run as a states rights third-party candidate.

In the poll, Johnson got 39 per cent of the vote, Nixon 30 per cent, McCarthy 12 per cent and Wallace 11 per cent.

In other political developments:

—An Associated Press survey indicates that potential favorite sons from 15 states have nearly half the delegates committed to them and could prevent any candidate from winning the GOP nomination on the first ballot. These 15 states will have 642 votes at the convention, and with 667 needed to nominate, it would be unlikely any candidate could come close enough to start a first-ballot stampede.

However, developments before the August convention in Miami Beach, including primaries and state conventions, could change the picture.

—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said in a New York interview that Rockefeller, who has said he isn't a candidate, "may surprise everyone and stick to his stand."

Javits supports Gov. George Romney of Michigan but said if Romney's bid fails, "I wouldn't feel at all inhibited looking toward Gov. Nelson Rockefeller."

Secretarial Hopefuls Have Onteora Meet

An orientation to the world beyong high school was presented to Senior Secretarial students at Onteora High School recently.

Realizing that members of the present senior class will soon be faced with either entering the business world or continuing their education, Onteora's Business Department extended invitations to former students to return to Onteora and discuss with the seniors what office work is like or what their individual college programs are like.

Those graduates who shared their experiences with the Secretarial Majors were Marion Stolpinski, a student at Albany Business College; Jeri Bremer, Ulster County Community College; Anneleise Krein, Houghton College; and Margaret Hanson and Jeanne Breitenstein, Nancy Taylor Secretarial School.

Rosetta Quick and Donna vandeBogart, secretaries in the Onteora School System and past winners of the school's "Outstanding Secretarial Student" awards, presented and discussed typical office situations.

Carl Brown, Onteora High School Principal, and John Stefano, Vice-principal, attended the seminar.

Arrangements for refreshments were made by Miss Donna Yankowski, a Senior student at Onteora. The program was held in the new high school addition.

Four Long Island Youths Held on Marijuana Charge

Four Long Island youths were arrested Sunday afternoon by State Trooper J.W. Gallelli of the Thruway detail on charges of criminally possessing a dangerous drug-marijuana.

A 1960 car in which the youths were riding along the superhighway was stopped by Trooper Gallelli near mile post 88 south of Kingston at 1:30 p.m. Search of the vehicle disclosed a quanity of marijuana, troopers said.

Booked on the narcotics charges were-Kevin Cohan, 16, Roger Mims, 17, Gary Persan, 18, and Robert Solomon, 19, all of Massapequa, L.I.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly, the youths pleaded guilty and each was fined $50. In lieu of payment of the fines the defendants were committed to the county jail until the fines are paid.

Fowler Opens the Door

A Lower Tax Increase Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler has opened the door a crack—just a little crack—to the possibility the administration will seek a tax hike lower than the 10 per cent it unsuccessfully sought in the last session of Congress.

"I am aware of some discussion of whether or not 8 per cent would be adequate or 6 per cent would be adequate," Fowler said Sunday. He added he would reserve judgement until the House Ways and Means Committee resumes hearings Jan. 22 on President Johnson's tax plans.

Died in Committee

In the first session of the 90th Congress, Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge bill died in the committee. Fowler said his "current inclination" is that the 10 per cent originally requested "is good insurance to have."

Fowler has said a tax hike would improve the nation's financial standing and help reduce the $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit.

He said the Vietnam war is responsible for about $1.5 billion of the deficit but rejected a suggestion that the dollar drain would force the United States to curtail military commitments overseas.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called Sunday for the withdrawal of four of the six divisions of U.S. troops in Europe in order to reduce overseas spending and thus, he said, strengthen the dollar.

The United States is spending $1.5 billion to $2 billion a year to maintain forces in Western Europe, said Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

Fowler appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation" and Proxmire spoke on Metromedia's "Opinion: Washington."

Nicholas Katzenbach, undersecretary of state, returned home Sunday from Europe and reported widespread support in European capitals for the U.S. campaign to stem the dollar drain.

He told newsmen that every capital he visited—in Britain, France, West Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and Italy—"approved the principles but some expressed concern about specific provisions.

Others in Favor

"Yet there was universal approbation that President Johnson is taking such strong measures," Katzenbach said.

He also reported the nations he visited expressed strong support for Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal as the quickest way to block inflation.

In Bonn, Germany, Johnson's program won qualified support from Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger but political opposition was developing in that country against the U.S. request that Bonn pay the full local costs of stationing American troops there.

Kiesinger said West Germany would be able to absorb the loss of U.S. tourist dollars and investments and would back Johnson's program "to the extent that our financial resources permit."

But he said the Washington proposals on troop costs would be studied "with all care" and with consideration to West Germany's own economy.

In the West German Bundestag, members of all three parties took a harder line on the troop-financing proposal, saying it would hurt West Germany's economy.

100 Refugees Arrested by Viet Police

DA NANG, Vietnam, (AP) — Vietnamese police arrested about 100 refugees today, saying they were taking part in an anti-American talk campaign in a produce market in downtown Da Nang.

The demonstrators were not carrying placards, but were conducting a "conversation campaign," talking to other people about anti-American sentiments, said A. Wilson Edwards of Louisville, Ky., public safety adviser to the Da Nang police department.

"These people are demonstrating against the American presence in South Vietnam," Edwards said. "They are demonstrating against bombing by American planes both in North and South Vietnam."

The armed police, wearing camouflage uniforms, carried truncheons but officials insisted there was no roughness. "We are using tact and diplomacy. We don't want to turn them against the government," Edwards said.

Sophie Miller Fund Continues

Contributions are still coming in for Sophie Miller Memorial Tree Fund and more money is needed before spring to insure completion of the project.

Recent donations have been received from the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel and Kingston Hadassah as well as from individuals.

Sophie Miller, beloved Freeman columnist who advocated long and loud the preservation of Hudson Valley beauty and history, died Nov. 10, 1967. As a tribute to her untiring efforts to restore Kingston Point Park to its past glory, a fund was started to provide a willow-lined entrance to the river beach area now designated as John F. Kennedy Park.

The tree-fringed drive would serve as a fitting memorial as well as enhancing the beauty of the area.

To date, approximately two-thirds of the neccessary funds have been collected by The Freeman. Though spring seems far away at this point, the planting season will soon be here and it is hoped the entire sum will be available at that time.

Donations large or small may be sent to the Sophie Miller Fund, care of The Kingston Freeman, Freeman Square, Kingston 12401.

For more than 20 years, Mrs. Miller wrote the popular Do You Remember column which was widely read even beyond the Mid-Hudson area.

Mrs. Robert A. Ronder, president of the Temple Sisterhood, noted that Mrs. Miller was a devoted member of the community and "was interested in all phases of Kingston, its beauty and its history." She would be thrilled to be "remembered," Mrs. Ronder concluded.

Planting will be under the supervision of the city beautification committee headed by Fred Johnston.

Percy on '68 Prospects: Rocky Best Vote-Getter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., says Richard M. Nixon is probably the favorite presidential prospect of Republican professionals but New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller would attract more of the independent and Democratic votes needed for a White House drive.

Percy said Sunday Republican officials have known and worked with Nixon and "for better or for worse, he has been a solid Republican."

GOP Votes Not Enough

But, Percy added, the GOP presidential nominee won't be able to win the White House just with Republican votes.

"I think it is the general consensus now, even among many professional Republicans, that Mr. Rockefeller, if he could hold together the Republican party, would probably have the best chance to attract independents and Democrats,' ' Percy said. "He has the greatest appeal to them today but that is not what might happen in August at the convention."

As for himself, Percy said again he doesn't plan to be a candidate other than as a favorite son from Illinois.

Percy appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., like Percy an opponent of the administration's Vietnam war policy, said some antiwar senators aren't endorsing his announced presidential candidacy because they expect him to lose.

"I don't think that's the kind of excuse that really stands up very well," he said.

McCarthy plans to enter several Democratic primaries against President Johnson but there have been indications he is unhappy because Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., hasn't expressed support for him.

McCarthy said he doesn't expect antiwar senators up for re-election this year to get involved in choosing between him and Johnson. But he added that "so far as senators who have supported the position I take and who are not running, there is a little bit more of a burden upon them to take a stand." Kennedy is not up for re-election this year. He has opposed Johnson's war policy but also has said h e will support the President for another term.

McCarthy was on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

12 PC for Eugene

The Gallup Poll reported that if McCarthy ran as an independent peace candidate in a four-way presidential race, he would get about 12 per cent of the vote. The poll matched McCarthy against Johnson, Nixon and former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who may run as a states rights third-party candidate.

In the poll, Johnson got 39 per cent of the vote, Nixon 30 per cent, McCarthy 12 per cent and Wallace 11 per cent.

In other political developments:

—An Associated Press survey indicates that potential favorite sons from 15 states have nearly half the delegates committed to them and could prevent any candidate from winning the GOP nomination on the first ballot. These 15 states will have 642 votes at the convention, and with 667 needed to nominate, it would be unlikely any candidate could come close enough to start a first-ballot stampede.

However, developments before the August convention in Miami Beach, including primaries and state conventions, could change the picture.

—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said in a New York interview that Rockefeller, who has said he isn't a candidate, "may surprise everyone and stick to his stand."

Javits supports Gov. George Romney of Michigan but said if Romney's bid fails, "I wouldn't feel at all inhibited looking toward Gov. Nelson Rockefeller."

Secretarial Hopefuls Have Onteora Meet

An orientation to the world beyong high school was presented to Senior Secretarial students at Onteora High School recently.

Realizing that members of the present senior class will soon be faced with either entering the business world or continuing their education, Onteora's Business Department extended invitations to former students to return to Onteora and discuss with the seniors what office work is like or what their individual college programs are like.

Those graduates who shared their experiences with the Secretarial Majors were Marion Stolpinski, a student at Albany Business College; Jeri Bremer, Ulster County Community College; Anneleise Krein, Houghton College; and Margaret Hanson and Jeanne Breitenstein, Nancy Taylor Secretarial School.

Rosetta Quick and Donna vandeBogart, secretaries in the Onteora School System and past winners of the school's "Outstanding Secretarial Student" awards, presented and discussed typical office situations.

Carl Brown, Onteora High School Principal, and John Stefano, Vice-principal, attended the seminar.

Arrangements for refreshments were made by Miss Donna Yankowski, a Senior student at Onteora. The program was held in the new high school addition.

Will It Work Once More?

It worked for the Democrats in seven out of the last nine Presidential elections. The two misses were due more to the popularity of the war hero, Dwight D. Eisenhower, than the fault of the New Deal program of social justice. So no one can blame Lyndon B. Johnson for planning the same old strategy for 1968.

That is the background of the work the President was doing through the holidays. At his ranch in Texas, Johnson is wrestling with the budget he will submit to the second session of the 90th Congress — a Congress that has shown signs of rebellion against his domestic program — but he is not discouraged by that.

The new budget again will be a guns and butter budget — guns for the war in Vietnam, butter for the poor of the land crying for their share of the prosperity. What if the chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee demands cuts in spending before passing more taxes, specifically a surcharge to reduce the federal deficit? Congress cut $6 billion from appropriations last session, but left enough to make the largest peacetime deficit in history.

If the Republicans block more money, Johnson will have his issue for the election campaign. He will insist that he tried to help the poor, but the Republicans blocked him. The fact that a large part of the opposition was Democratic, led by the Democratic chairman of the Ways and Means committee, will be passed over. Republicans make better whipping boys.

With General Eisenhower giving notice that he will campaign against a nominee who would turn his back on the 13,000 American dead in Vietnam, the war issue may be largely neutralized. Johnson can with impunity move his campaign to the domestic front and make all the promises he wants, even against an inimical Congress. They would get the blame, he the credit, with the poor who loom large in the electorate.

Ineffective Drug Ban

Two hundred medical and pharmaceutical specialists are screening 3,000 drugs that came onto the market in the quarter century between 1938 and 1962, to determine how effective they are. Ten per cent, about 300 such drugs marketed under 1,600 different brand names, may be taken off the shelf as wholly ineffective, among them many household favorites.

The screening is being done under the amendments to the Pure Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act of 1962, which required manufacturers to submit substantial evidence supporting therapeutic claims. Before 1962, only proof of safety was required.

The study is being done under an $834,000 contract given by F.D.A. to the National Research Council. Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of F.D.A., who predicted the ban on 10 per cent of the drugs under study, said that some family favorites have stood the test of time, but may turn out to be less than the best in the opinion of the academy's eminent evaluators.

Those found ineffective would be denied marketing privileges. Others found probably effective and possibly effective will be subject to further examination. Since obviously, the $5 billion drug manufacturing industry will be affected, the industry and even some doctors and patients may protest the findings. Under the 1962 law, however, F.D.A. has the power to reject ineffective drugs. Its first duty is to protect the public.

Taxing Limit Reached?

Faced with the necessity of raising taxes to meet essential services, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, widely regarded as the potential liberal Republican candidate for President, warned that the nation might have reached a point where the people's expectations for more government services were outrunning their ability to pay for them.

"Unless government at every level exercises restraint, there could be disastrous results created, with far more human suffering than we are trying to eliminate in the programs we are carrying out at home and abroad," Rockefeller said. His thesis was that we have reached a limit to taxing without affecting the strength and growth of our economy and the increase in job opportunities.

Noting that Britain has been forced to devalue the pound, Rockefeller said that the dollar was under pressure, that the United States was overspending abroad, that it was losing gold, that it suffered from inflation and that the Federal budget deficit could be as high as $30 billion. He said that every state in the country faced a budgetary gap and that local governments suffered from the same problem.

It was time that someone of the Governor's stature spoke for the taxpayers. In a sense, Rockefeller pointed out, it's time to balance our hopes and our aspirations with the realities of life. We must face the fact that government, just like a family, can't spend way beyond its income for very long without weakening its credit and without undermining its strength. We hope the budget makers on all levels will have that very much on their minds these days as they go about preparing their 1968 expenditures. Even though Rockefeller's warning smells of clever politics for a presidential election year, it still is good advice.

Time Trial

David Lawrence Says

Romney Feels America Must Stay In Vietnam

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — Governor George Romney of Michigan went abroad for a month to get first hand impressions about the world situation which would help him in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. But he didn't come back with the recommendation that the United States get out of Vietnam. While he made some suggestions, he did not veer from the basic principles of President Johnson's foreign policy.

This is a significant occurrence. Too many critics have jumped to the conclusion that the American people not only want to pull out of the war but are willing to do it on a "peace at any price" basis and toss aside the sacrifices made by the men in the armed services of the United States.

The Vietnam problem changes in some respects all the time, and public-opinion polls show a growing number of citizens—though by no means a majority—who would be content with any kind of a peace.

Governor Romney acknowledges that Vietnam is "the single most consuming issue throughout the world." He says he made it clear everywhere on his trip that "there would be no lessening of our determination to find a satisfactory settlement as a result of this year's election—there would be no abandonment of Vietnam."

The Michigan governor verified what has been reported before—the fact that, while American prestige is still a plus among the people of other nations, it is declining in some areas.

"All of these problems, of course," he added, "are complex and difficult to solve. There are no easy answers. But it is clear that current American programs and policies are not meeting them."

Mr. Romney did not, however, explain what he would do if he had command of America's foreign policy. All he said was that the United States needs "a global foreign policy which is more cohesive and less dominated by expediency." He was referring, to be sure, not only to American military involvements abroad but also to foreign-aid programs, as he remarked:

"We need to define and commit our resources on a more selective and less wholesale basis. We must inspire confidence rather than resentment, and we must encourage self-sufficiency rather than dependence abroad."

President Johnson would agree with every word of this, and declare that this has been and will continue to be his objective.

What the Romney analysis proves—as other political figures who have visited Vietnam also discovered—is that the United States, having intervened in that area, cannot abandon its allies and must pursue its commitments until there is some assurance of security for independent nations in Southeast Asia.

Generally overlooked, of course, is the fact that the Vietnam war is not an isolated affair but is part of the worldwide situation. Many of the organizations which "demonstrate" choose to ignore this as well as the role being played by both Red China and the Soviet Union. These two communist governments are responsible for the Vietnam war and for the crisis in Southeast Asia. If the United States doesn't get some guarantees which will this time be respected, the result will be the same as what occurred in 1954, when the major nations agreed on a program of peace for the area only to have it undermined gradually thereafter through the machinations of the Reb Chinese and the Soviets.

The Michigan governor's remark's on his arrival in this country were restrained. In his prepared statement, when he turned to domestic problems, he emphasized, as have many critics, the ill effects of inflation and the trouble in which the American dollar finds itself today.

It is constructive and useful for those aspiring to the presidency to take trips abroad and get the background of the international questions. From a political standpoint, it may be helpful in creating the impression that a would-be nominee is really knowledgeable on foreign affairs. But basically the statement Governor Romney made after his trip to Europe and Asia implies that he will not make a political issue of the Vietnam war and will concentrate on internal problems.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a young lady at the checkout counter and I said: "Good morning," and she held her hand on her forehead and said: "Please, I have a hangover." It is impossible to be hearty to these people. They can't stand noise—like a kitten stamping its feet on a rug, or a bottle of seltzer fizzing like slag sliding down a mountain.

This woman and her husband went out New Year's Eve. They haven't come back. Every night they cure the terror with a few belts of Rare Old Garbage. This used to be called "a bat," or "Going on a skate." It has also been called a few things seldom found in proper publications.

The time for these is when you are very young and the head has two holes, for the thumb and middle finger. With a little skill, you can throw yourself down a bowling alley. If you hit the head pin, the pain goes away.

My brother John has a birthday and all we do is shake hands. Worse, each is afraid to let go. There was a time when the male Bishops would gather en clan behind our leader and a case of booze. The Irish end of the family would invite the Italian and Polish wings, and it was possible to shake a guest out of a throw rug a week later. Nobody ever went home.

Our Leader, who is now in his 85th year and was last seen in the bedroom bootlegging a bottle of milk of magnesia, was fearless. On some occasions, he would pay to take the whole entourage to the Catskills, roughly 120 miles from home and rougher with each passing minute. Some of the boys could take dead aim at a doorway and miss it by a foot. One of the policemen couldn't get his uniform hat on over the lumps.

In our set the hero of The Lost Weekend was a coward. Ironically, none of the Bishops were good drinkers like Toots Shor and the former Joe E. Lewis. Anybody with a couple of dollars can get stoned. The best the family ever did was the time my father chipped a half gallon of homemade gin down to a damp bottom, but, that same night, he proved he was the only man who could drive across a prairie uphill.

Watching the return to sobriety sometimes required three days. The moment these animals reached the cutoff point, the features melted in acute sorrow until the chin was opposite the navel. If an explosion occurred, each head was turned slowly and with caution, to see WHO.

For hours, men would sit and silently contemplate the advantages of sudden death, broken marriages, heart attacks and strokes. The vows never to repeat this little caper caromed off the walls of heaven. A few wrote for entry blanks in the Prohibition Party. Others couldn't steady a gun with two hands.

John comes to my house with his wife Anna and I say: "What can I get you?" My brother shakes his head. "Thanks," he murmurs. I ask my father. He gives me a lopsided grin and waves me away. The fellows I grew up with were afraid to pick up an office phone until Thursday. Now they whistle through their upper plates and murmur: "You got any tea?"

The response to this is "You going to drink it or smoke it?" but it would not be appreciated by the pallbearers. They are all sensible men who eat candy and have to lean forward to find out what the others are talking about. New Year's Eve? They burst into tears when they hear Guy Lombardo.

They were a lot more fun when they were daffy. Ironically, only one felt the need to join Alcoholics Anonymous. He makes speeches, from coaster to coaster. The rest were pretty good at the shotput until a decade ago. One by one, they cut it to a martini at dinnertime, or nothing at all.

So far as I've been able to observe, none of them has become intolerant of drinking by others, including their grown children. This is surprising, because none is as insufferable as the reformed boozer. They just sit around with their pale pathetic faces, watching others drink, and swallowing in unison. They wear simpering mother-of-pearl smiles.

Somebody gave John a bottle of V.O. for his birthday and he put it on a shelf alongside the one he got last year. Our Fearless Leader pads slowly up and down his bedroom, dwelling on the dear, dead days. I stop by to tell him of the young lady who is trying to get off the New Year's Eve carousel.

The leonine head shakes with a grim smile. "I'll say a prayer for her," he says. "If that doesn't work, look in the bottom of my closet and you'll find a pint of Schenley". . . .

Rivers Wants Another Junket

WASHINGTON—Hard-drinking, hard-traveling Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., the king of the junketeers, is off and going again.

As House Armed Services chairman with power over the Pentagon, he needs merely to snap his fingers to get an Air Force jet to fly him anywhere, anytime.

Indeed, the armed forces outdo each other to keep Rivers happy while he's roaming the world. For years, the Air Force provided him with a military nursemaid, who toted his baggage and attended his whims. Rivers was particularly delighted with the attention he received in Italy a couple of years ago from an Air Force sergeant named Diago Randazio.

The Army, jealous over the House Armed Services Committee's seeming preference for the Air Force, scored a quiet coup by offering Randazio a commission as a chief warrant officer at higher pay in the Army.

Randazio transferred to the Army before the Air Force realized what had happened, and has been assigned as Rivers's nursemaid ever after. Wherever Rivers goes, Randazio tags along—sharing the joys of jet travel, handling the travel arrangements, alerting American authorities of Rivers's frequent changes in plans and, if at all possible, keeping the Congressman sober.

They returned from a three-week holiday in Europe just before Christmas, having hit the high spots in Germany, Holland and Belgium. The good-natured Randazio afterward complained to buddies that Rivers kept him up all night nearly every night.

Now Rivers has notified Randazio that he wants to tour the Far East in a few weeks. He has in mind visits to Hong Kong, Thailand, the Philippines—and, of course, South Vietnam.

Congressional Tourists

By unofficial count, 67 members of Congress have filed plans to visit South Vietnam, so they can be photographed with the troops for election-year publicity. Other members are scattered around the globe taking hasty vacations, most of them at the taxpayers' expense, before Congress reconvenes on January 15.

The preference for sunny climes, where the Congressmen are busily investigating everything from foreign aid to space-tracking stations. What they really seek, however, is a winter sun tan.

For instance, four members of the House Space Committee—Reps. John Davis, D-Ga., Lester Wolff, D-N. Y., Robert Tiernan, D-R. I., and Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich.—are supposed to be inspecting tracking stations in Italy, Spain, Portugal, France, Holland and Britain.

Yet, except for a station in Madrid, there are no tracking facilities in any of those countries.

One of the most pleasant trips is a tour of the South Pacific arranged by a House Interior Subcommittee in the guise of inspecting the Pacific Trust Territory. Those who singed up for the trip include Reps. Hugh Carey, D-N. Y., Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., Roy Taylor, D-N. C., Richard White, D-Tex., Tom Foley, D-Wash., Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., Ted Kupferman, R-N. Y., James McClure, R-Idaho, and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii. They began their junket in Honolulu which, incidentally, is not a trust territory.

Three Senators — Quentin Burdick, D-N. D., Frank Moss, D-Utah and Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.—are planning to join the group on one of the South Pacific isles.

The most important literature for Congressmen, evidently, is still a travel folder.

WPA Revived?

It's likely that the WPA, the much-maligned Works Projects Administration of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, will make a reappearance in 1968. Government planners are now drawing up programs that would put thousands of unemployed people to work on the government payroll.

The idea is to make the government the "employer of last resort," which will develop and provide jobs for those who lack the skills to find and keep jobs in private industry.

The old WPA drew constant criticism for its obvious failings. It was characterized by the social commentators of the day as a fat payoff to loafers; and the symbol of the WPA, in the public mind, became a man leaning on a shovel.

In retrospect, the WPA made a considerable contribution to bringing the United States out of the depression. Although many WPA projects were contrived, others produced lasting improvements. And the WPA did give men jobs, and paychecks, which paid the rent and fed families.

The planners who are putting together the new proposals contend that the work doesn't have to be wasted and that the workers can perform functions that otherwise would be left undone.

A few government programs, such as the Labor Department's Operation Mainstream, have already demonstrated on a small scale that men who are considered unemployable can make genuine contributions under government supervision. The handful of workers caught up in Operation Mainstream has produced some dramatic improvements in park and highway beautification.

Significantly, programs such as this have met with considerable approval from political conservatives who applaud the idea of paying people for work performed. They prefer the principle of a hand up instead of a handout.

As the planners envision it, the new WPA would take unemployables off welfare doles, teach them new skills and give them productive work to perform. In time, they could be absorbed into private industry. But meanwhile, their work would give the country worthwhile improvements.

Political Strategy In Cong Battle Plan

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In a number of recent battles, the Viet Cong have pushed the attack against U.S. forces, taking extremely heavy losses.

On the surface, they've blindly thrown men into certain defeat.

Some observers have taken these Viet Cong actions to mean they are either desperate or cracking up.

This reporter's Vietnamese contacts, however, suggest that the Viet Cong in these attacks were neither desperate nor foolhardy.

These Vietnamese think the Communists knew in advance what losses they would take and what the results of these battles would be — military defeat for themselves and military victory for the U.S. forces.

By this theory, the Viet Cong also anticipated — and possibly correctly—that these military defeats could lead to quite important political victories.

If the Mao Tse-tung theory of warfare prevails in South Vietnam, then the V.C. fight battles only to make political gains.

From what this reporter's contacts could gather, the Viet Cong were bothered by U.S. and South Vietnamese government statements that the war was turning in our favor. These reports apparently were getting to the villagers in V.C. controlled areas and in the contested regions where the government is in control sometimes and the Communists on other occasions.

To the discomfort of the Communists, these statements of allied progress seemingly were having some effect on the rural citizenry in some areas. Co-operation with the Communists was decreasing.

To knock down these reports of U.S.-Saigon gains, the Viet Cong stepped up their attacks. They deliberately walked into several major battles.

What then was the political result of these battles?

Though announcing victory, the U.S. Army said our losses were considerable. U.S. newspapers announced that the V.C. were on the offensive. When U.S. forces moved on, Communists moved back in.

The rural Vietnamese didn't know how many Viet Cong were killed in the battles or who won. (These pragmatic country men and women tend not to believe any announced claims by either side.)

But many rural Vietnamese did note that the U.S. admitted the Viet Cong were on the offensive and that the U.S. troops had taken considerable casualties. The rural Vietnamese also noted that after the battle was over and the smoke had cleared away, the U.S. and Vietnamese government troops usually went away and the Viet Cong underground was in possession of most of the territory in the area where the battles had been fought.

If, as a result, more villagers believe the Viet Cong are strong and growing stronger and that they have the power to take on the American forces and inflict heavy casualties, this will help the V.C. to strengthen their local political and economic structure.

To the Viet Cong, this is a political victory well worth heavy battle losses.

Will It Work Once More?

It worked for the Democrats in seven out of the last nine Presidential elections. The two misses were due more to the popularity of the war hero, Dwight D. Eisenhower, than the fault of the New Deal program of social justice. So no one can blame Lyndon B. Johnson for planning the same old strategy for 1968.

That is the background of the work the President was doing through the holidays. At his ranch in Texas, Johnson is wrestling with the budget he will submit to the second session of the 90th Congress — a Congress that has shown signs of rebellion against his domestic program — but he is not discouraged by that.

The new budget again will be a guns and butter budget — guns for the war in Vietnam, butter for the poor of the land crying for their share of the prosperity. What if the chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee demands cuts in spending before passing more taxes, specifically a surcharge to reduce the federal deficit? Congress cut $6 billion from appropriations last session, but left enough to make the largest peacetime deficit in history.

If the Republicans block more money, Johnson will have his issue for the election campaign. He will insist that he tried to help the poor, but the Republicans blocked him. The fact that a large part of the opposition was Democratic, led by the Democratic chairman of the Ways and Means committee, will be passed over. Republicans make better whipping boys.

With General Eisenhower giving notice that he will campaign against a nominee who would turn his back on the 13,000 American dead in Vietnam, the war issue may be largely neutralized. Johnson can with impunity move his campaign to the domestic front and make all the promises he wants, even against an inimical Congress. They would get the blame, he the credit, with the poor who loom large in the electorate.

Ineffective Drug Ban

Two hundred medical and pharmaceutical specialists are screening 3,000 drugs that came onto the market in the quarter century between 1938 and 1962, to determine how effective they are. Ten per cent, about 300 such drugs marketed under 1,600 different brand names, may be taken off the shelf as wholly ineffective, among them many household favorites.

The screening is being done under the amendments to the Pure Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act of 1962, which required manufacturers to submit substantial evidence supporting therapeutic claims. Before 1962, only proof of safety was required.

The study is being done under an $834,000 contract given by F.D.A. to the National Research Council. Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of F.D.A., who predicted the ban on 10 per cent of the drugs under study, said that some family favorites have stood the test of time, but may turn out to be less than the best in the opinion of the academy's eminent evaluators.

Those found ineffective would be denied marketing privileges. Others found probably effective and possibly effective will be subject to further examination. Since obviously, the $5 billion drug manufacturing industry will be affected, the industry and even some doctors and patients may protest the findings. Under the 1962 law, however, F.D.A. has the power to reject ineffective drugs. Its first duty is to protect the public.

Taxing Limit Reached?

Faced with the necessity of raising taxes to meet essential services, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, widely regarded as the potential liberal Republican candidate for President, warned that the nation might have reached a point where the people's expectations for more government services were outrunning their ability to pay for them.

"Unless government at every level exercises restraint, there could be disastrous results created, with far more human suffering than we are trying to eliminate in the programs we are carrying out at home and abroad," Rockefeller said. His thesis was that we have reached a limit to taxing without affecting the strength and growth of our economy and the increase in job opportunities.

Noting that Britain has been forced to devalue the pound, Rockefeller said that the dollar was under pressure, that the United States was overspending abroad, that it was losing gold, that it suffered from inflation and that the Federal budget deficit could be as high as $30 billion. He said that every state in the country faced a budgetary gap and that local governments suffered from the same problem.

It was time that someone of the Governor's stature spoke for the taxpayers. In a sense, Rockefeller pointed out, it's time to balance our hopes and our aspirations with the realities of life. We must face the fact that government, just like a family, can't spend way beyond its income for very long without weakening its credit and without undermining its strength. We hope the budget makers on all levels will have that very much on their minds these days as they go about preparing their 1968 expenditures. Even though Rockefeller's warning smells of clever politics for a presidential election year, it still is good advice.

Romney Feels America Must Stay In Vietnam

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — Governor George Romney of Michigan went abroad for a month to get first hand impressions about the world situation which would help him in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. But he didn't come back with the recommendation that the United States get out of Vietnam. While he made some suggestions, he did not veer from the basic principles of President Johnson's foreign policy.

This is a significant occurrence. Too many critics have jumped to the conclusion that the American people not only want to pull out of the war but are willing to do it on a "peace at any price" basis and toss aside the sacrifices made by the men in the armed services of the United States.

The Vietnam problem changes in some respects all the time, and public opinion polls show a growing number of citizens—though by no means a majority—who would be content with any kind of a peace.

Governor Romney acknowledges that Vietnam is "the single most consuming issue throughout the world." He says he made it clear everywhere on his trip that "there would be no lessening of our determination to find a satisfactory settlement as a result of this year's election—there would be no abandonment of Vietnam."

The Michigan governor verified what has been reported before—the fact that, while American prestige is still a plus among the people of other nations, it is declining in some areas.

"All of these problems, of course," he added, "are complex and difficult to solve. There are no easy answers. But it is clear that current American programs and policies are not meeting them."

Mr. Romney did not, however, explain what he would do if he had command of America's foreign policy. All he said was that the United States needs "a global foreign policy which is more cohesive and less dominated by expediency." He was referring, to be sure, not only to American military involvements abroad but also to foreign-aid programs, as he remarked:

"We need to define and commit our resources on a more selective and less wholesale basis. We must inspire confidence rather than resentment, and we must encourage self-sufficiency rather than dependence abroad."

President Johnson would agree with every word of this, and declare that this has been and will continue to be his objective.

What the Romney analysis proves—as other political figures who have visited Vietnam also discovered—is that the United States, having intervened in that area, cannot abandon its allies and must pursue its commitments until there is some assurance of security for independent nations in Southeast Asia.

Generally overlooked, of course, is the fact that the Vietnam war is not an isolated affair but is part of the worldwide situation. Many of the organizations which "demonstrate" choose to ignore this as well as the role being played by both Red China and the Soviet Union. These two communist governments are responsible for the Vietnam war and for the crisis in Southeast Asia. If the United States doesn't get some guarantees which will this time be respected, the result will be the same as what occurred in 1954, when the major nations agreed on a program of peace for the area only to have it undermined gradually thereafter through the machinations of the Reb Chinese and the Soviets.

The Michigan governor's remark's on his arrival in this country were restrained. In his prepared statement, when he turned to domestic problems, he emphasized, as have many critics, the ill effects of inflation and the trouble in which the American dollar finds itself today.

It is constructive and useful for those aspiring to the presidency to take trips abroad and get the background of the international questions. From a political standpoint, it may be helpful in creating the impression that a would-be nominee is really knowledgeable on foreign affairs. But basically the statement Governor Romney made after his trip to Europe and Asia implies that he will not make a political issue of the Vietnam war and will concentrate on internal problems.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a young lady at the checkout counter and I said: "Good morning," and she held her hand on her forehead and said: "Please, I have a hangover." It is impossible to be hearty to these people. They can't stand noise—like a kitten stamping its feet on a rug, or a bottle of seltzer fizzing like slag sliding down a mountain.

This woman and her husband went out New Year's Eve. They haven't come back. Every night they cure the terror with a few belts of Rare Old Garbage. This used to be called "a bat," or "Going on a skate." It has also been called a few things seldom found in proper publications.

The time for these is when you are very young and the head has two holes, for the thumb and middle finger. With a little skill, you can throw yourself down a bowling alley. If you hit the head pin, the pain goes away.

My brother John has a birthday and all we do is shake hands. Worse, each is afraid to let go. There was a time when the male Bishops would gather en clan behind our leader and a case of booze. The Irish end of the family would invite the Italian and Polish wings, and it was possible to shake a guest out of a throw rug a week later. Nobody ever went home.

Our Leader, who is now in his 85th year and was last seen in the bedroom bootlegging a bottle of milk of magnesia, was fearless. On some occasions, he would pay to take the whole entourage to the Catskills, roughly 120 miles from home and rougher with each passing minute. Some of the boys could take dead aim at a doorway and miss it by a foot. One of the policemen couldn't get his uniform hat on over the lumps.

Early Retirement Is Seen for Many Older Americans

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Publications

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series analyzing the changes currently being made in the Social Security and Medicare regulations.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — About half the Americans who now apply for retirement benefits under Social Security do so at age 62, three years short of the full retirement age.

Those who do get only 80 per cent of the monthly benefits they would get if they waited until they were 65. If they retire at 63, the percentage they get is 86 and two-thirds. And at 64, retirement brings them 93 and one-third per cent of full benefit.

Government analysts suggest that the reason so many people are choosing to retire at 62 is that employment opportunities for them have fallen off sharply in an age stressing automation, new high levels of skills and young workers.

The early retirees suffer in monthly benefits because they will be drawing them for a longer time. But that inevitable reduction evidently has not stemmed the rush toward speedier retirement.

For those who still choose to wait until 65, the outlook since adoption of 1967 Social Security revisions is even better than it was before.

Beginning with March 2, 1968, Social Security checks, the minimum monthly retirement benefit for a person 65 goes up from $44 to $55. This will be paid to an individual whose average yearly earnings under Social Security come only to $800 or less.

The maximum monthly benefit, payable to a worker reaching 65 in 1968 with average yearly earnings of $4,800, is rising with the March 2 checks from the old level of $135.90 to $153.60.

Later on, as higher average earnings under Social Security become possible, the top monthly benefit figure for a 65-year-old retiree will rise, with the peak of $218 coming in the year 2006. At that point the earnings average can reach $7,800 a year—which is the income level from which Social Security taxes are to be taken from 1968 on.

If 2006 sounds far off, it should be remembered that most students presently in college won't be retiring until after that.

When you start drawing retirement benefits, your wife and children may also qualify.

Your wife must be at least 62. Or, if she is younger, she must be caring for an unmarried child who is under 18 years of age, or a child incapable of self-support because of a disability incurred before age 18.

By the standard rule, the wife gets one-half of what is called the husband's "primary insurance benefit" — what he would be entitled to at age 65. But her payment is reduced on a scale up to 25 per cent, if she herself claims her benefit before reaching 65.

On the other hand, there is a ceiling on what she can get. It is fixed at $105. But it won't apply for many years because no retired men will have high enough benefits to make it apply until then.

Each child of a worker retired at 65 can also get one-half of his primary benefit. Normally these latter payments stop when the child reaches 18, except when prior disability is involved or where the child is still in school. In the latter instance, payments continue until the child reaches age 22.

Here again, however, a ceiling intervenes. There is a limit on how much one family can draw in benefits. The old range was from a minimum of $66 to a top of $368.00.

The new minimum for a family top is $82.50 a month, with a present high point of $322.40, depending of course on the worker's average yearly earnings. By the year 2006, the family maximum will have climbed to $434.40 for a worker then reaching 65.

Persons who attained the age of 72 before 1968 can get special benefits at a new high of $40 a month even if they have no record of work under Social Security. Those who reach 72 before 1969 need only nine to 15 months of work credited to their account to be eligible for these special benefits—which used to be just $35 a month.

Mideast Peace Topic During Tour of Ranch

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol toured the placid LBJ Ranch and talked of peace in the Middle East and the world Sunday.

With the Hebrew word "shalom"—peace—Johnson started things off.

"We will try to extend the peace that is in our hearts to all men wo are willing to share our partnership of good faith and good purpose," the President said in an airport welcome for Eshkol at Randolph Air Force Base, some 60 miles south of the ranch.

Central Concern

The 72-year-old Israeli leader said peace was his 'central concern," too. Eshkol noted that it was in his area of the world in ancient days that 'men first expressed a striving for peace on earth."

'I will never give up hope that this will come to pass. We in our country are working toward this end," Eshkol declared.

And Johnson added his hope that 'you find peace which all Americans are proud to seek with you."

Amid the emphasis on peace, the Israelis were expected to make a plea for U.S arms, including 50 F4 phantom jet planes they say are needed to balance a Soviet buildup of arms to Arab nations.

The 22-hour overnight visit was informal and private, except for the arrival at Randolph, where about 1,000 persons turned out in 37 degree weather and winds gusting up to 23 miles an hour.

President and Mrs. Johnson and Premiere and Mrs. Eshkol went by helicopter to the ranch where Johnson wasted no time getting his visitor out to see his acres along the Pedernales River.

He drove one station wagon for a tour amid the oak trees and the pastures where deer and white-faced Hereford graze. Mrs. Johnson, in another station wagon, drove the ladies to tea at the ranch house.

The two leaders posed for photographers and launched their talks in the small yellow and beige-decorated den of the white stone and frame ranch house.

A family dinner, featuring "supreme of pheasant" and rice, was served at two big round tables. Gifts were exchanged and Eshkol invited the Johnsons to come to visit Israel sometime soon.

Toasts Exchanged

In an exchange of dinner toasts—again with a peace theme—Johnson said that America's peacemakers had a busy year in 1967—in the Middle East, Cyprus and Vietnam. The President said they found a stubborn truth confirmed: 'Making peace is punishing work. It demands enormous courage, flexibility and imagination. It is ill-served by hasty slogans or half-solutions."

Johnson promised it is the intention of the United States to pursue and find peace in the Middle East and throughout the world.

Eshkol said he felt Johnson had shown him warm friendship and also demonstrated a deep belief that in terms of rights and duties all people are equal: That they have equal right to be themselves and to be left in peace."

'In the days of peril I thought often of your friendship," Eshkol told the President, in an apparent reference to the Israeli-Arab war last June.

The visiting Israel leader, who is in this country on a nine-day tour, said Texas reminded him very much of parts of his own country.

"There is, of course, no comparison in size," he said. Israel covers 7,993 square miles, Texas 276,600 square miles.

Saugerties Truck Hearing Tonight

The campaign of Saugerties volunteer firemen for an aerial ladder truck culminates 8 o'clock tonight at a public hearing on the purchase proposal at Saugerties Village Clerk'e office in the municipal building.

In relation to an underground campaign to defeat the proposal the top fire officials in the village issued a statement today. The statement follows:

"An absurd and categorically untrue report is circulating in the Saugerties Village that only one volunteer fire company is needed to protect the village," Saugerties Fire Commissioner Donald McCaig said this week in a joint statement with Fire Chief Homer Van Voorhis, First Assistant George H. Warringer and Second Assistant Carroll Kimble.

"That any one residing in the village for any number of years could believe such a possibility is fantastic, the fire officials statement continued.

Double Duty

"The rumor maker spreading these untruths presumes to preclude the possibility of two fires erupting in the village at the same time just because he thinks it has never happened," the statement continued.

A "consolidated company" as suggested by the report would never have as many active volunteer firemen ready to answer a call of emergency. Members in each of the three fire companies in the village have the interest to be active members and are proud of the traditions of the fire company in which they serve.

The question of costs to equip three companies in comparison with equipping a "consolidated company" is "a half truth." Saugerties would still need at least two pumper trucks and a hook and ladder truck, the statement said.

Questions Manpower

The big questions is whether there would be enough manpower active to serve in one "consolidated company." There are individual administrative and line officers in each of the three companies. This spread of authority creates interest and provides incentive to be active.

Each chief designated each year is a representative of one of the three companies and this staff of chiefs unites the three companies in one fire department under one chief. This has proved to be an ideal arrangement for many years, the officials said.

How anyone could suggest tampering with such an arrangement vital to the welfare and safety of the community is inconceivable.

Last week the "rumor makers" proposed to change the name of the village that has stood historically for many years. This week they want to eliminate the volunteer fire system, a tradition in rural America for centuries.

Need Protection

"We the fire officials of the village question what type of thought goes into the promotion of idiotic ideas such as this.

If anything the village needs more fire protection. Ask anyone who has had the misfortune to be the victim of a fire," the fire officials concluded.

Washington Hook and Ladder Company presented a petition with 257 voters listed asking for the purchase of the new equipment for Saugerties Fire Department. Upon receiving the petition Saugerties Villiage Board set a public hearing date for tonight.

Plan Testimonial For Supervisors

The old Board of Superivsors, recently dissolved in favor of a County Legislature, today announced plans for a testimonial dinner Jan. 14, 3 p. m., Stockade Restaurant, Crown Street, Kingston.

The board, composed of 13 supervisors from the city and 20 from the various towns, will come together this one last time. Already 26 persons have responded.

Town of Ulster Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz is in charge of reservations. Persons desiring to attend should contact him.

Medicaid Payments Come Slowly

NEW YORK (AP) — Virtually no hospitals in the metropolitan area have been fully repaid for treating Medicare and Medicaid patients, reports the Greater New York Hospital Association.

The association report, issued Sunday, covers 124 institutions, including 25 municipal hospitals in the area.

Theodore F. Childs, association president, said there were a "series of obstacles in the way of reimbursement for the costs of the care being provided."

Joseph Godfrey, regional representative of the Bureau of Health Insurance of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said that hospitals are being paid on an intermin basis for the treatment of Medicare patients, adding:

"They're being paid on the basis of what the cost is approximately, and then at the end of the year, when the hospital submits its cost reports, the accounts are settled."

Another group, the Hospital Planners Council of Southern New York, said the number of patients in voluntary hospitals was rising steadily while the number in municipal hospitals was declining—thus putting a growing strain on the voluntary institutions.

Both the council and the association stressed the need for physicial improvements in hospitals.

Recently Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller informed legislators that he planned to ask for a $1 billion program for hospital construction and modernization throughout the state.

22 Seeking Post As City Firemen

Twenty-two men will vie for seven positions in the Kingston Fire Department at Kingston High School Jan. 27.

A spokesman for the Civil Service Commission told The Freeman today that the 22 applications was the highest numbe received for the test in recent years.

The Civil Service Commission, with offices at the Municipal auditorium, is also receiving applications for the Kingston Police Department, until Jan. 17.

Qualifications for both jobs are similar in that applicants must be legal residents of Ulster County for at least one year prior to applying and must be between the ages of 21 and 29. Police applicants must be residents of the city while preference will be given to fire department applicants who are Kingston residents.

The salary range for both departments is between $5,100 and $6,500 per year. This is expected to be increased $300 in the 1968 city budget.

Accountant Enters National Contest

Joseph A. Gusmano, manuscript director of the Mid-Hudson Chapter, National Association of Accountants, announced today the acceptance of a manuscript from John J. Cina, local CPA with D'Arcangelo and Clark and Co., Poughkeepsie, to be submitted to the national Association of Accountants in a annual manuscript program.

1964 Democratic landslide and squeaked through in 1966, stated that McCarthy "has as much chance as a Viet Cong standing in the middle of the Da Nang air base runway."

"He is one of the most ill-advised political adventurers in history," he said of McCarthy's entrance into the presidential primaries.

Coupling McCarthy with Senators William Fulbright and Robert Kennedy, Resnick claimed all three belonged to what he called a "bug-out faction."

They should at least come over here, he said from Vietnam, and listen to these people before they make up their minds.

"They say we are doing the wrong thing here, but ask them for workable alternatives . . . They have never given one."

Memoriam

In loving memory of our sister Jean Hung, who passed away, January 7, 1964.

Oh how patient in thy suffering,
When no hand could give thee ease,
God, the helper of the helpless,
Saw pain and gave thee peace.

They Burned

1964 Democratic landslide and squeaked through in 1966, stated that McCarthy "has as much chance as a Viet Cong standing in the middle of the Da Nang air base runway."

"He is one of the most ill-advised political adventurers in history," he said of McCarthy's entrance into the presidential primaries.

Coupling McCarthy with Senators William Fulbright and Robert Kennedy, Resnick claimed all three belonged to what he called a "bug-out faction."

They should at least come over here, he said from Vietnam, and listen to these people before they make up their minds.

"They say we are doing the wrong thing here, but ask them for workable alternatives . . . They have never given one."

Memoriam

In loving memory of our sister Jean Hung, who passed away, January 7, 1964.

Oh how patient in thy suffering,
When no hand could give thee ease,
God, the helper of the helpless,
Saw pain and gave thee peace.

For Hudson Conference

'Next Decade' Panelists

Seven prominent citizens of Columbia County have been named as panel moderators for the Hudson River Valley Commission's "Next Decade" Conference in Hudson on January 10. The anouncement was made by Hudson Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler and HRVC's Executive Director Alexander Aldrich, who are co-chairmen of the meeting.

The moderators and panels are:

Population Growth: Peter Donatelli, administrator of Columbia Memorial Hospital.

Industrial Development: Henry Bender, plant engineer at Universal Match Corp., past president of the Industrial Management Club and Treasurer of Columbia County Industrial Development Corp.

Pollution Control: Dr. Leonard M. Niesen, Columbia County Health Officer.

Transportation: Herbert K. Harder, board chairman of Harder's Expres and president of the Columbia County Chamber of Commerce.

Agriculture: Joseph Millman, realtor and farmer and a member of the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers.

Wild Life, Natural History and Recreation: Gabriel Arcuri, oficer of Hawver and Ewasick, Inc., and a board member of the YMCA.

The Columbia meeting is the first in a series of "Next Decade" conferences to be held in each of the counties along the Hudson River. The Hudson River Valley Commission is responsible, under the law, for developing a comprehensive plan for the area along the entire length of the Hudson River. The 'Next Decade" conferences will guide the Commission in formulating the plan.

The Columbia "Next Decade" conference Jan. 10 will be held at the First Reformed Church, 52 Green Street, in Hudson, beginning at 9 a. m. It will adjourn at 1 p. m., following a Dutch Treat luncheon at which reports of the panels will be presented.

Capetown Doctors Lead World in Medical Feats

By DAVID J. PAINE
Associated Press Writer

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —South Africa's announcement Dec. 3 that its doctors had performed history's first human heart transplant surprised millions around the world.

How, it was asked, could such a small country have beaten such medically advanced nations as the United states in carrying out this feat.

The answer lies largely in years of research by specialists working as a team, the dedication and skill of the individual specialists and the high standard of all sections of the team.

All the doctors acknowledge that in other parts of the world there are specialists at least as proficient as they are. But they doubt that any other hospital has put together a team with the same excellence as theirs.

'One must say that our surgeons, anaesthetists, physicians, theater nurses, ward nurses and the others who make up the team are all first class," said Dr. Marthinus C. Botha, one of the key figures in the Dec. 3 transplant on Louis Washkansky and the Jan. 2 transplant on Philip Blaiberg.

"Of course, there may be as good, conceivably even better, in other parts of the world. But in Cape Town, every member of the team is of world class," he said.

Even Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, the brilliant heart surgeon who leads the team, says he is not the only one who could do the job.

There are other surgeons in my team who could perform the operation," he said.

He is not competent to do the operation alone, he said, and relies heavily on the other specialist members of the group for advice.

The team has spent many years working together on heart research and later on open heart operations, which now are almost an everyday affair at Groote Schuur Hospital.

Both Barnard and his younger brother Marius, also a surgeon, have studied heart operations and research in the United States and the team members have visited many countries, including the Soviet Union, to keep abreast of developments.

Botha, a pathologist who heads the blood grouping laboratory at the nearby University of Cape Town Medical School believes "without fear of contradiction that our blood transfusion services and societies are without parallel in the world."

The contribution of blood donors over the last 10 years was a major factor in the high standard of open heart surgery in Cape Town—about 1,000 operations and not a single patient lost, he said.

It was decided from the outset of the open heart surgery, Both said, that fresh blood in heart-lung machines would have a great advantage over stored or banked blood suitable for ordinary transfusions.

Local donors are prepared to give blood on holidays and weekends, often considered inconvenient times in other countries, he said.

"Comparison of our post operative results, particularly in cases requiring many hours on heart lung machines, have been better than those obtained in every other major center overseas where they have to work with blood which has been stored for several days due to organizational difficulties," he said.

Not only the surgeons, but other members of the team, are so dedicated that after their normal work they put in long hours without pay to study heart problems, experiments and reports from abroad.

All consider it far more than just another job. When the first heart transplant on Washkansky began in the early hours of a Sunday morning, several of those watching in the operating theater but not actually taking part in the operation had hurried from a party so they could be on hand.

The Cape Town evening newspaper, Cape Argus said: "It is obvious that members of the team, with all the publicity they have had, could command large fees in private practice. . . what keeps them at work on salaries at Groote Schuur is devotion to their calling."

Barnard has avoided questions on how much he and other doctors on the transplant team are paid. But a local magazine reported that he earns "barely 500 rands —$700— a month after deductions" and that the amount includes "special allowances on grounds of merit."

Groote Schuur considers all members of the team full-time salaried employes and they may not accept additional money for their services.

Many also do research and some lecture at the University of Cape Town. But so close are ties between the hospital and the university that their work is virtually a joint venture divided into surgery on one side and research and teaching on the other.

The budget of Groote Schuur in 1968 is $11.2 million and the costs of the heart surgery will come out of the budget.

Dr. J.A. Hendriks, director of hospital services in Cape Province, said it is "virtually impossible" to calculate the cost of the heart transplant operations.

"They are part and parcel of the over-all service," he said. "There is no breakdown of their cost as such."

No patients' fees are charged apart from the usual hospital fees that are assessed on the patients' income, Hendriks said.

"In other words, if a man can afford to pay nothing, then he pays nothing but he gets the same service."

"Comparison of our post operative results, particularly in cases requiring many hours on heart lung machines, have been better than those obtained in every other major center overseas where they have to work with blood which has been stored for several days due to organizational difficulties." he said.

Not only the surgeons, but other members of the team, are so dedicated that after their normal work they put in long hours without pay to study heart problems, experiments and reports from abroad.

All consider it far more than just another job. When the first heart transplant on Washkansky began in the early hours of a Sunday morning, several of those watching in the operating theater but not actually taking part in the operation had hurried from a party so they could be on hand.

The Cape Town evening newspaper, Cape Argus said: "It is obvious that members of the team, with all the publicity they have had, could command large fees in private practice. . . what keeps them at work on salaries at Groote Schuur is devotion to their calling."

Barnard has avoided questions on how much he and other doctors on the transplant team are paid. But a local magazine reported that he earns "barely 500 rands —$700— a month after deductions" and that the amount includes "special allowances on grounds of merit."

Groote Schuur considers all members of the team full-time salaried employes and they may not accept additional money for their services.

Many also do research and some lecture at the University of Cape Town. But so close are ties between the hospital and the university that their work is virtually a joint venture divided into surgery on one side and research and teaching on the other.

The budget of Groote Schuur in 1968 is $11.2 million and the costs of the heart surgery will come out of the budget.

Dr. J.A. Hendriks, director of hospital services in Cape Province, said it is "virtually impossible" to calculate the cost of the heart transplant operations.

"They are part and parcel of the over-all service," he said. "There is no breakdown of their cost as such."

No patients' fees are charged apart from the usual hospital fees that are assessed on the patients' income, Hendriks said.

"In other words, if a man can afford to pay nothing, then he pays nothing but he gets the same service."

Man Suffers Fire Burns

A 75-year-old invalid man was hospitalized Saturday for burns suffered in a fire in the front bedroom of his second floor 705 Broadway apartment.

Firemen said Harry Schultis III was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of second and third degree leg burns. The hospital listed his condition as good.

The fire was discovered by the occupant's grandson, Harry Schultis, who stopped at the apartment at 1:20 p. m. and smelled smoke. Investigating, he found the bedding in flames and removed the victim to an adjoining room, officials said.

Firemen said apparent cause was smoking in bed. Damage was fined to the bedding. However, smoke spread throughout the apartment, firemen said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels were up as the stock market advanced early Monday in active trading.

Gains outnumbered losses by well over 2-to-1.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.27 to 902.51.

Stocks on the top steelmakers all were fractionally higher as the group responded to news of rising orders for steel.

The rest of the market was still helped by a feeling that prospects for peace in Vietnam are getting better.

The market was higher from the start and maintained its advantage.

U.S. Lines, up a point, continued strong in the wake of the $50 a share tender offer for its stocks.

Ogden Corp. advanced 1½ as it resumed its climb of last week.

IBM tacked on a couple of points.

Up a point or so were Union Carbide, Xerox, Air Reduction and United Air Lines.

Raytheon and Eastman Kodak lost more than a point each.

Benguet opened unchanged at 7¾ on 12,200 shares.

Onteora Groups In Taylor Law Talks Today

An eight-teacher negotiating team will represent the Onteora Teachers Association in Taylor Law negotiations with the Onteora Board of Education, January 8.

The meeting at the Onteora Central School will establish those areas of education which the board and team consider negotiable. A package of 31 Articles, describing those areas in which the Teachers Association desires voice, will guide the initial negotiations.

The teachers' package is the result of a six-month study aided by N.Y.S.T.A. field representatives John Fiscella and Owen Smith.

The package was completed December 19, examined by legal aid, and communicated to the board Dec. 21.

A two-day study by the teacher team at a New York State Teachers Association Negotiation Seminar in Albany, Dec. 1 and 2, preceded the compilation of negotiable items.

Negotiations with the OCS board will continue throughout the winter.

Woman Charged In Assault Case

A Glenford woman was arrested by State Police Sunday and charged with assaulting her sister with broken glass and a broom handle.

Accused is Patricia Ricci. She was arraigned before Town of Woodstock Justice of the Peace Rudolph Baumgarten and released on bail.

Her sister, Mary Shultis, also of Glenford, was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for a cut hand. Mrs. Shultis issued the complaint, police noted.

According to sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Shultis was allegedly assaulted in her home around noon Saturday. She told investigators that her sister entered her home and cut her with a piece of broken glass and then hit her over the head with a broom handle.

The Ricci woman has pleaded innocent.

Give New Vets Insurance Tip

Recently discharged veterans have 120 days from the date of their discharge to retain Servicemen's Group Life Insurance coverage by converting it to an individual policy without a physical examination, the Ulster County Veteran's Service Agency has announced.

The agency also declared Jan. 31 as the deadline for completing and returning those income questionnaires received by many veterans and their families last month. Failure to do so could mean the loss of their benefits.

If you are a veteran discharged after Jan. 31, 1955 with 181 days of military service with all or part of it after that date, and meet certain requirements, you are eligible to receive financial assistance while studying for your high school diploma.

One month of study is authorized for each month of active service up to 36 months. In no way does this affect a veteran's basic eligibility for a college education under the new GI bill, the agency said.

John B. Tyler is the director of the Ulster County Veteran's Service Agency which is located in the Ulster County Office Building in Kingston.

Tarrytown Fire

TARRYTOWN N.Y. (AP) - Fire erupted early today in a business and residential area, with 15 families evacuated from the scene.

Five fire companies responded to the blaze, in an urban renewal area bounded by Cottage Place and Orchard St.

There were no reports of injuries.

Onteora Groups In Taylor Law Talks Today

An eight-teacher negotiating team will represent the Onteora Teachers Association in Taylor Law negotiations with the Onteora Board of Education, January 8.

The meeting at the Onteora Central School will establish those areas of education which the board and team consider negotiable. A package of 31 Articles, describing those areas in which the Teachers Association desires voice, will guide the initial negotiations.

The teachers' package is the result of a six-month study aided by N.Y.S.T.A. field representatives John Fiscella and Owen Smith.

The package was completed December 19, examined by legal aid, and communicated to the board Dec. 21.

A two-day study by the teacher team at a New York State Teachers Association Negotiation Seminar in Albany, Dec. 1 and 2, preceded the compilation of negotiable items.

Negotiations with the OCS board will continue throughout the winter.

Woman Charged In Assault Case

A Glenford woman was arrested by State Police Sunday and charged with assaulting her sister with broken glass and a broom handle.

Accused is Patricia Ricci. She was arraigned before Town of Woodstock Justice of the Peace Rudolph Baumgarten and released on bail.

Her sister, Mary Shultis, also of Glenford, was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for a cut hand. Mrs. Shultis issued the complaint, police noted.

According to sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Shultis was allegedly assaulted in her home around noon Saturday. She told investigators that her sister entered her home and cut her with a piece of broken glass and then hit her over the head with a broom handle.

The Ricci woman has pleaded innocent.

Give New Vets Insurance Tip

Recently discharged veterans have 120 days from the date of their discharge to retain Servicemen's Group Life Insurance coverage by converting it to an individual policy without a physical examination, the Ulster County Veteran's Service Agency has announced.

The agency also declared Jan. 31 as the deadline for completing and returning those income questionnaires received by many veterans and their families last month. Failure to do so could mean the loss of their benefits.

If you are a veteran discharged after Jan. 31, 1955 with 181 days of military service with all or part of it after that date, and meet certain requirements, you are eligible to receive financial assistance while studying for your high school diploma.

One month of study is authorized for each month of active service up to 36 months. In no way does this affect a veteran's basic eligibility for a college education under the new GI bill, the agency said.

John B. Tyler is the director of the Ulster County Veteran's Service Agency which is located in the Ulster County Office Building in Kingston.

Tarrytown Fire

TARRYTOWN N.Y. (AP) - Fire erupted early today in a business and residential area, with 15 families evacuated from the scene.

Five fire companies responded to the blaze, in an urban renewal area bounded by Cottage Place and Orchard St.

There were no reports of injuries.

Arrow Order Scouters Attend Annual Dinner

More than 75 members, fathers and guests were in attendance at the 16th annual banquet of Half-Moon Lodge No. 28, Order of the Arrow, held recently, at Red's Restaurant in West Coxsackie.

The Order of the Arrow is a National Honor Camping Society affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America. Half-Moon Lodge No. 28 is a part of the Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts, which covers Ulster and Greene Counties.

This year's banquet was hosted by the Northern Chapter of the Lodge, with Mark Feldbin of Troop 45 in Coxsackie serving as banquet chairman. The banquet is held during Christmas vacation each year, to accommodate students who are home from college, and this year attracted members from New Baltimore to Highland and from Catskill to Ellenville.

Speaker at this year's event was Gerald LeBlanc, supervising principal of the Coxsackie-Athens Central School District. A Life Scout and member of the Order of the Arrow as a boy, LeBlanc has remained interested in Scouting and has served both as a volunteer leader and professionally for a time.

Lodge Chief Dean Bryden of Saugerties served as master of ceremonies at the dinner. During the business meeting which preceded the closing ceremonies, he told the membership that new lodge by-laws had been drafted by a committee headed up by Chapter Advisor Edward Petery of Highland, together with Lodge Advisor Thomas P. Nolan; Norman Wilson of Stone Ridge and John Carlson of Saugerties. These new by-laws have been thoroughly reviewed and corrected by the Lodge Executive Committee, and will now be duplicated and sent to all active members. Before becoming effective, they must be voted upon by the general membership at a lodge meeting which will be called in the early spring.

Lodge officers for the current year, in addition to Bryden, are vice-chief, Christopher Zell of Kingston; secretary, Sanford Whitman Jr. of Kingston; and treasurer, Thomas Panek of Highland.

Esopus Town Board Meets

The organization meeting of the Esopus Town Board was held at the Town Hall in Port Ewen on Jan. 2.

Chairing the meeting was newly elected Supervisor George H. Freer. Board members present were Justice John O. Beaver, Justice Charles Montafia, Councilman Oscar Lambert, Councilman Sol Rosenthal and Town Clerk Emily Card.

The Kingston Daily Freeman was named official town newspaper and the Rondout National Bank, Port Ewen branch, was named depository for town funds.

Other appointments included Supervisor George H. Freer, welfare officer; Jack Reynolds, chairman of board of assessors; Barbara Maynard, town historian; Town Clerk Emily Card as registrar of vital statistics; Harry Mitchell, multiple dwelling inspector and fire marshal, and Durval Dunbar, building inspector.

Among new appointments were the selection of Roger Mabie, Bishop James McManus and Rev. Daniel Ogden as Ross Park Commissioners. Irving Maurer was newly appointed as water board commissioner for a four-year term. James Fairley received appointment as bookkeeper to the Supervisor; James Freer, dog warden; Orazia Greca, superintendent of town buildings.

Newly appointed Constables are Charles Webster, Robert Emberson, Clarence Bowman and John Manginello.

In accepting the post of Town welfare officer, Supervisor Freer brought attention to the fact that he was assuming the additional post without compensation in the interest of good conservative government.

A number of persons who had previously held town appointments failed to receive reappointment. This was questioned at some length by Supervisor Freer, who felt that an appointee who had served the Town with distinction was entitled to again be placed in his former post.

A newly formed zoning commission was proposed by the board, consisting of 12 members. Supervisor Freer pointed to the fact that areas including Union Center, Spring Valley Acres and St. Remy were being given no representatives on the commission. Some discussion followed and the board increased the number of members to 14, which would give representation to these areas.

On Zoning Commission

Appointed to the Zoning Commission were John Spinneweber, Charles Beehler, Frank Kelley, William Zacker, John A. Henry, Chester Dumond Jr., Robert H. Courtney, William Van Benschoten, George Freer, Durval Dunbar, Joseph Montella, Sol Rosenthal, Jean Sills and Roger Mabie.

Lillian A. Walker and Joan Sleight were appointed Deputy Town Clerks.

Regular town board meetings will be held on the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p. m. All residents are both welcome and urged to attend board meetings.

Keating Elected Union Hose Head

William Keating was elected president of Union Hose Company No. 4 at the annual meeting Jan. 4.

Other officers include Joseph Murphy, honorary president; Ronald Matthews, vice president; Donald Matthews, captain; Joseph DeCicco, first lieutenant; Frank Hermance, second lieutenant; Wayne Platte, secretary; Joseph Stopski, treasurer; Michael McGowan custodian; Paul Fisher, board of directors and Edward Brouck, representative to Kingston Fire Fund Association.

In addition, Hermance, Platte and Fisher are delegates to the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association. DeCicco is the delegate to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association with Donald Matthews as alternate. McGowan is delegate to the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association and Donald Matthews is the alternate. Donald Matthews is the delegate to the New York State Firemen's Association and Hermance as alternate.

Alderman Fisher

Wants Building Codes Enforced

Tenth Ward Alderman Peter C. Fisher, sworn in to that post on Jan. 1, has gripped the reins of his office with a strong hand by having the City Clerk send out letters to Kingston's Building Code Department, the city engineer, and the Board of Public Works demanding that the city's building codes be enforced.

Fisher will also submit a resolution to the Common Council which he trusts will "complete the cycle" wherein the city will be able to sell properties it acquires from landlords who fail to live up to housing code standards.

The Tenth Ward Republican told The Freeman that the city can acquire a building from a landlord who is not living up to the requirements of the law and who may be keeping an "unsafe building."

Will Insert Provision

"There are, however, no provisions for the city getting rid of the property," said Fisher, "and I intend to insert whatever provision is necessary to plug the loophole."

Fisher feels that there have been far too many code violations, "But I know of no action being taken outside of giving notice to the landlords," he said.

The alderman also believes that the term "unsafe building" has to be more adequately defined.

The Code of the City of Kingston, N. Y., explains that the owners of unsafe buildings have to be informed that they repair or demolish the building.

TENTH WARD HAZARD is this abandoned old house which Republican alderman of the Ward, Peter M. Fisher, claims is violating the building code of the city. Fisher said the code is not being enforced. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The law also says that violators can be subjected to a $500 fine or 30 days in jail, or both, and that, "Each day that a violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense."

Fisher said that not only has nothing been done in the field of code enforcement but that, "I can't find out who is to blame.

"There is a lot of buck passing back and forth between the Housing Commission, the Board of Health, and the Board of Public Works, and nothing has been accomplished," he said.

Fisher said that violations in his Ward were obvious on the surface, that "tenants were throwing garbage out of their windows and into the streets" and that there were buildings which "should have been razed years ago" that are "fire traps and hazardous to the lives of the children" who occassionally play.

Dangerous Buildings

He pointed out that there were "dangerous" buildings on Cedar, Franklin, and Van Buren Streets, and that there was a possibility of the district becoming "a slum area."

Fisher also said there was a billboard on top of an old building on the corner of the Broadway and Liberty Street which "shakes violently when the wind blows and he felt that "it will blow down some day.

Mrs. Lance Cooper of 25 Van Deusen Street pointed to an old barn which she believes to be a hazard.

"Children play in it and it's a breeding place for rats. It's a fire trap and a health hazard," she said, adding, "We have nice homes on my side of the street."

Fisher said, "I hope the Mayor will enforce the law. I believe he is an honorable man, concerned with the welfare of the city, but I want it pinpointed where the fault lies."

Health Dept. Has New Film

The Ulster County Association for Mental Health draws attention to the following announcement issued by the New York State Department of Health.

A new professional film, Sound the Trumpets," has been added to the State Health Department's film library. It shows how sensible planning and construction of buildings can benefit the handicapped and aged. The adverse effects of thoughtless building construction are shown as obstacles to the rehabilitation of those citizens.

The film illustrates how millions of the handicapped and aged are prevented from finding suitable housing, travel, employment, education, attending church, receiving adequate medical care, food and clothing—all as a result of thoughtless construction planning.

Lower costs of welfare, building insurance and maintenance are shown as benefits of sensible construction practices.

The film may be borrowed by applying to the office of the Ulster County Association For Mental Health, 2 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston.

Boy's Hand Freed From Soda Machine

Firemen labored for more than an hour Saturday to free the hand of a seven-year-old boy stuck in a soda disposing machine.

Garry Kiernan of 35 Jansen Avenue was taken to Kingston Hospital for observation following a harrowing ordeal at municipal auditorium, firemen said. The youth's hand became caught in the machine while attempting to get a soft drink.

According to officials, every attempt to extricate the hand failed until firemen were called to the scene. Authorities said that for one hour and 20 minutes firemen operated small electric saws to cut away the metal grasping the child's arm.

The incident occurred Saturday afternoon around 3 o'clock.

President Rutherford B. Hayes' wife was nicknamed "Lemonade Lucy" because she did not permit alcoholic drinks to be served at official parties in the White House.

Alderman Fisher

Wants Building Codes Enforced

Tenth Ward Alderman Peter C. Fisher, sworn in to that post on Jan. 1, has gripped the reins of his office with a strong hand by having the City Clerk send out letters to Kingston's Building Code Department, the city engineer, and the Board of Public Works demanding that the city's building codes be enforced.

Fisher will also submit a resolution to the Common Council which he trusts will "complete the cycle" wherein the city will be able to sell properties it acquires from landlords who fail to live up to housing code standards.

The Tenth Ward Republican told The Freeman that the city can acquire a building from a landlord who is not living up to the requirements of the law and who may be keeping an "unsafe building."

Will Insert Provision

"There are, however, no provisions for the city getting rid of the property," said Fisher, "and I intend to insert whatever provision is necessary to plug the loophole."

Fisher feels that there have been far too many code violations. "But I know of no action being taken outside of giving notice to the landlords," he said.

The alderman also believes that the term "unsafe building" has to be more adequately defined.

The Code of the City of Kingston, N. Y., explains that the owners of unsafe buildings have to be informed that they repair or demolish the building.

TENTH WARD HAZARD is this abandoned old house which Republican alderman of the Ward, Peter M. Fisher, claims is violating the building code of the city. Fisher said the code is not being enforced. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The law also says that violators can be subjected to a $500 fine or 30 days in jail, or both, and that, "Each day that a violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense."

Fisher said that not only has nothing been done in the field of code enforcement but that, "I can't find out who is to blame.

"There is a lot of buck passing back and forth between the Housing Commission, the Board of Health, and the Board of Public Works, and nothing has been accomplished," he said.

Fisher said that violations in his Ward were obvious on the surface, that "tenants were throwing garbage out of their windows and into the streets" and that there were buildings which "should have been razed years ago" that are "fire traps and hazardous to the lives of the children" who occassionally play.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., MONDAY EVENING, JANUARY 8, 1968

The YMCA Meets the Needs Of Many Community Groups

Over the years, the YMCA has provided a great many community youth and adult groups with programs and services to the fullest extent of its capacity. In this county with its burgeoning population, these groups are coming to the Y for services today in increasing numbers.

For example, the YMCA's cooperation has enabled the Ulster County Community College to move ahead with its two-year program leading to an associate degree in recreation supervision. Presently 62 college men and women are involved in classes at the YMCA three days per week from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. It is also fair to say that were it not for the YMCA, the Kingston High School swim team of 24 boys would probably not be possible. This group uses the YMCA pool from 2:30 to 3:30 four days per week.

The Children's Home of Kingston has the use of the YMCA pool each Thursday from 6:15 to 7:15 p. m., and the hours of 1 to 2:30 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday are reserved for the Highland Training School and Esopus Prep. The new Ulster Academy has inquired about a program of health and physical education for their students beginning next fall, and an arrangement has recently been worked out with the Kingston Boys Club for use of the YMCA pool for a period each Saturday afternoon.

Church youth groups are requesting YMCA facilities in increasing numbers for special programs and splash parties, and the YMCA for years has sponsored the YMCA-Church Basketball League for youngsters, this year numbering 16 teams and over 200 boys. Church picnics at the Day Camp site in Shokan, and space for Sunday services and baptisms have also been a part of the YMCA's services.

Other groups being served by the YMCA from time to time have included many boys and girl Scout Troops, the Kingston Bowling Association, YWCA and the Ulster County Community College wrestling team.

According to the YMCA's President, Ralph H. Stewart, the history and tradition of YMCAs, not only in the United States but around the world, has been to offer as many relevant services as are possible to as many community groups as forward to the day when an even greater number of outside groups can be accommodated as the result of its new facilities," Stewart said.

Bard Dean Goes To Berkeley Post

Harold L. Hodgkinson, Dean of Bard College, will be spending his Sabbatical Leave, from January to June 1968, in residence at the University of California in Berkeley as a visiting staff member of the Center for Research and Development in Higher Education.

He will also be serving as West Coast Chairman and Associate Director of the Campus Governance Program, sponsored by the American Association for Higher Education under a grant from the Kitter-ing Foundation. The program's study will be concerned with 20 representative colleges and universities, and will hope to gain insights into the patterns of decision-making, influence and communication on the campuses.

Appointed Acting Dean for the semester is Lawrence Grauman Jr., presently Lecturer in English at Vassar College. Grauman studied at Princeton, has an M.A. from the University. He was formerly on the faculty at Antioch.

Appointed City Chairman For March of Dimes Drive

Meyer Kaplan, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, March of Dimes, today announced the appointment of Joseph F. Carroll Jr. as city chairman for the 1968 Fund Raising Drive Campaign in the City of Kingston. Carroll is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, 280 Wall Street, as a Metropolitan insurance consultant.

Active in community and civic affairs, Carroll has served as city chairman and county co-chairman for Muscular Dystrophy drives, and as chairman of the business and industry division of previous March of Dimes drives. Carroll served the City of Kingston as alderman-at-large. He is a graduate of St. Joseph's School and Kingston High School. He served in the 3rd Infantry Division in Korea.

JOSEPH F. CARROLL JR.

Carroll is married to the former Margaret Blackwell of Selma, N. C., and they have three children, Jay, Margaret and John. They reside at 105 Washington Avenue.

"Birth Defects are a problem which has burdened mankind for so long, with so little attention, that a great many feel that nothing can be done about it. As a result, many thousands are needlessly deprived of a chance to lead useful lives. Too many children and adults are needlessly limited by severe mental and physical handicaps or are doomed to isolation in institutions," Carroll explained. "Evvery year 250,000 American babies are born with birth defects. They urgently require help. Do your part by giving to the March of Dimes."

Russo-U.S. Incidents End with Tough Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Soviet diplomatic files are crammed with harsh accusations and strong protests exchanged in many years of Cold War shooting incidents. But neither superpower ever has gone beyond tough words.

Both know a small incident could mushroom into a serious clash of arms.

So it appears likely the latest fuss—over alleged U.S. bomb damage to a Soviet freighter in Haiphong Harbor—will sputter out without major military consequences.

The Soviet Union protested formally Thursday night that U.S. warplanes dropped bombs the same day near the 3,726-ton freighter Tereyaslavl-Zalesskiy while the ship was unloading flour.

The Soviets called it a "piratical attack."

Without confirming the Soviet version, the United States replied that any damage which might have occurred "was inadvertant and is regretted by the U.S. government."

This was the third such Soviet claim since early June— and the third time the United States has expressed regret, together with assurances it desires to avoid repetitions of such incidents.

Although the Defense Department refused comment on any actions being taken, sources indicated U.S. pilots would be reminded emphatically that they are expected to make every effort not to strike Soviet or other foreign ships in Haiphong Harbor.

The main reason the Haiphong dock area and anchored shipping remained off-limits to American bombers is that U.S. policy makers fear the bombing or rocketing of Soviet vessels might force the U.S.S.R. to take a more direct hand in the Vietnam War. In their protest note the Soviets hinted they might arm freighters entering the war zone, a move which observers say might lead to a direct clash between attacking U.S. planes and Soviet vessels.

In a statement issued by the Pentagon Friday night, Phil G. Goulding, assistant secretary of defense, said all Navy pilots taking part in air strikes in the Haiphong area last Thursday "were briefed on the foreign shipping in the harbor and were instructed to avoid endangering those vessels."

Goulding noted the presence of heavy antiaircraft activity "demanding evasive action."

Surveyor Gets Direction

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A final direction change will be sent tonight to Surveyor 7, the last scheduled U.S. unmanned mooncraft, speeding toward a planned soft landing on rugged lunar terrain.

Flight controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory will adjust the path of the instrument-loaded craft in an attempt to put it 18 miles north of the crater Tycho, near the south-central edge of the lunar disc.

Surveyor is expected to be some 51,000 miles from the moon when the course alteration is made at 10:30 p.m., PST. The landing is planned for Tuesday night.

Controllers radioed an initial direction change Sunday afternoon and said the operation went well.

The course adjustments were necessary because the booster rocket that powered the 2,288-pound vehicle from Cape Kennedy, Fla., early Sunday aimed it at the crater Hipparchus, 1,000 miles north of Tycho.

U.S. space agency scientists had designated Hipparchus as the target but then decided the Tycho region was better suited to the mission's goal of sampling subsurface material. Because it is a newer crater, the soil ejected when Tycho was created has had less time to be changed by erosion.

Engineers figured it would be easier to change Surveyor's course in flight than to rebuild the booster's electronics. Earlier Surveyors have required only one course correction.

The highlands north of Tycho were picked although they appear to be rugged, and computer analysis gives Surveyor 7 a 43 per cent chance of landing safely. Surveyors 5 and 6, both of which were successful, were given 47 per cent chances.

Surveyor 7's target area is only 12 miles in diameter whereas previous Surveyor target areas were 37 miles wide. A Jet Propulsion lab spokesman said the spacecraft is aimed at a "relatively smooth but still damned rough" piece of terrain.

The unmanned flight is to be the last lunar mission before man makes the trip, perhaps next year.

Previous Surveyors have investigated four primary lunar landing areas and proved them safe for manned expeditions. The Surveyor 7 mission is purely scientific.

Diminitive Pacific Island Slated For Japanese Sovereignty Again

By BOB POOS

MARCUS ISLAND (AP) — A sign at the tiny airstrip on this diminitive island in the central Pacific gives the latitude and longitude.

"That's so people who come here will know where they've been," says Sean Apren. Bill John of San Francisco, one of the 32-man Coast Guard garrison.

"We always send the location to our folks back home so they find it on a map. Nobody's ever heard of it before.."

Marcus is about a mile long and three-fourths of a mile wide at its widest. The Coast Guardsmen here beam loran navigational aid signals to U.S. airplanes and ships, including nuclear submarines, in the area. They also man a small weather station.

This was one of numerous Japanese island fortresses but never became a World War II battleground like nearby Iwo Jima or Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian. American forces moved in quietly after the Japanese surrender in 1945.

Sometime this year it, along with its sister islands of the Bonin chain, is due to be returned to Japanese sovereignty.

Whether the U.S. base will remain is a moot point at present, probably to be negotiated in the final Japanese-American agreement.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard detachment and four civilians—all American citizens of Hawaiian descent — fight boredom and loneliness when off duty.

"We're too busy to be bored on duty," says CWO Jean Jeter, former resident of San Antonio, Tex., now executive officer on Marcus.

"There's always plenty do on the job. "Just keeping all the equipment in working order can be a fulltime proposition."

The island's resupply is almost entirely by air. Planes are scheduled to come in once a week. Sometimes they do.

Off-duty pastimes include exploring the massive Japanese fortifications, shooting at the numerous sharks that prowl the surrounding waters, fishing, skindiving and swimming in an excellent pool.

John, a skindiving enthusiast, has some underwater color photos of three huge Mako sharks, closeups. "If these are a little blurry," he says, "It's because my hands were shaking at the time."

Virtually all the men take correspondence courses—Jeter is wrapped up in five.

"The time passes," he says, "and pretty soon your year is up."

Military duty tours on Marcus and other remote outposts are for one year, as in Vietnam, rather than the normal 18 months.

Island commander Lt. (jg) Ralph Anderson permits his men to grow fierce-looking beards if they desire. Most quickly shear them off if a trip to civilization is imminent.

Marcus has seasons and its winter is almost perfect, warm with a fine breeze.Summeris ckly shear them off if a trip to civilization is imminent.

winter is almost perfect, warm with a fine breeze. Summer is fiercely hot with the sun reflecting off the dazzling coral which makes up the island. The location, incidentally, if you want to find Marcus, is 26 degrees 32 minutes north, 142 degrees 10 minutes east.

Mail Registration Possible for UCCC

For the convenience of local residents, Ulster County Community College is initiating a system of registration by mail for evening students for the Spring, 1968, Semester, George B. Erbstein, president announced today.

"It is hoped that this new registration procedure will be of help to interested adults as well as the college," said Erbstein. "But in no way will it decrease the amount of advisement that is available to students or the close relationship of our faculty and students."

In addition to the mail registration, it also will be possible for local residents, if they desire, to register in person at the Stone Ridge campus for evening classes.

Brochures Available

The college will mail out brochures listing evening course offerings at the Stone Ridge campus, the Kingston Classroom Building, Ellenville Hgih School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School and the Woodstock Elementary School. These brochures will contain preregistration applications.

Persons interested in registration by mail should fill out these applications, listing the courses they want to take, and mail them to the College Registrar. The deadline for receiving these applications is Jan. 15.

Upon receiving these applications, the Registrar's Office will mail to the student a registration card with instructions for registration. Included in this mailing will be a letter from the Business Office with tuition information.

Jan. 24 Deadline

The student must complete his or her registration card and mail it back to the college's Business Office with a check for tuition not later than Jan. 24.

Interested students can seek advisement about courses they want to take prior to registration or at registration. Advisors are available for evening students in the George Clinton Administration Building at the Stone Ridge campus from 7 to 9 p. m., Monday through Thursday, or from 7 to 9 p. m., Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at the Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street, Kinston.

Students, if they desire, may register in person at the College's Stone Ridge campus from 6 to 9 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 1, and from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Saturday, Feb. 3. Advisers will be present both times to counsel students.

Orange College Sets Sex Education Forum

Representatives of education, medicine, the clergy and the news media will lead a public discussion on "Sex Education—A Community Responsibility" at Orange County Community College on Wednesday evening.

Residents and officials of area school districts interested in establishing sex education classes may attend the 7 p. m. meeting in the college's Orange Hall auditorium. The panel discussion is a preliminary to a ten-week course planned this spring at OCCC to train school personnel in sex education techniques.

Questions and viewpoints from members of the audience will be invited at next Wednesday's meeting, according to Mrs. Jean Keene, coordinator of the Allied Health Project at OCCC. No admission or registration fee will be charged for the meeting.

Two months will pass between the public meeting and the start of the OCCC course in order to allow school districts to decide whether or not they wish to offer sex education in their schools. Only teachers, nurses and administrators from schools where sex education will be taught next year will be eligible for the ten-week OCCC course which begins on March 6.

Town Board Holds Meet

The Town Board of Plattekill held their reorganization meeting at Town Hall in Ardonia on Wednesday, January 3, at 8 p.m.

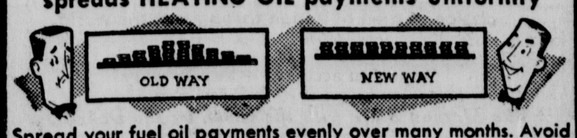

Among the appointments made was one to Frank Pineiro of Plattekiil, a former Assessor for the Town of Plattekill, to Councilman to fill a vacancy left vacant by the resignation of George Sisti Jr., who was elected Supervisor by the people at the last election. Lester A. Wager Jr. was appointed Constable in-charge-of Duty Assignments.

The Board went on record as being opposed to the increase in taxes caused by the federal and state mandated programs. The regular meeting of the Town Board scheduled for January 10 has been moved to January 17 at Plattekill Town Hall in Ardonia, N. Y.

Pre-Cana Conference Called for Jan. 14

A Pre-Cana Conference series for couples intending to be married within the next four months will be held in St. Joseph's School in Kingston on January 14-21. The conference on Sunday, Jan. 14 at 2:30 p. m. will be conducted by the Rev. James LaBar; on Tuesday, Jan. 16 at 7:30 p. m. by Brother Daniel Kirk; on Thursday, Jan. 18 at 7:30 p. m. by Dr. John Cook; and on Sunday, Jan. 21 at 2:30 p. m. by a panel of married couples.

According to the Rev. James LeBar of St. Joseph's, who is the Ulster County Director of Pre-Cana conferences, these conferences are designed to give the engaged couples a deeper understanding of marriage, its obligations, duties and privileges.

The conferences are sponsored by individual parishes under the direction of the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York. The Kingston committee chairmanship is under Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sweeney Jr. All engaged couples in Ulster County are cordially invited to attend these Pre-Cana conferences and may do so by contacting their parish priest or St. Joseph's rectory.

MR. AND MRS. ELSON S. OAKLEY SR., of Shokan celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on New Year's Day with a party given by their children. The festive event was held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Elson S. Oakley Jr., of Glenford. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Oakley were married January 1, 1918 in Olivebridge. They are the parents of three daughters and two sons: Mrs. Sam Sperling, Mrs. Kenneth Snyder and William Oakley, all of Kingston; Elson S. Oakley Jr., of Glenford, and Mrs. Albert R. Pernice of Newtown, Conn. They have 13 grandchildren. (Reynolds photo).

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Members of the school board in our town (Falls Village, Conn.) have extra duties these days. They are engaged in negotiating a new contract with the teachers. The teachers are not in a union; no, indeed. They are members of a professional organization. And they are not threatening a strike if no agreement is reached. Again no, indeed. However, there is a shortage of teachers. If school boards are not generous enough, they may have to teach school themselves.

These negotiations, which in plain language mean meeting after meeting after meeting, went on last year, too, in our town. A one-year contract resulted. The board is trying for a three-year contract this time, but the teachers don't approve. Perhaps they enjoy meetings; more than the board members do, anyway.

Those who have dutifully attended these sessions report a certain hardening of attitude between the opposing parties. They used to be all friends together, neighbors living near each other. Now there is a tendency to say "we" and "they." "They" are presenting demands they know they won't get. "We" aren't offering as much as we shall have to pay. This is bargaining. Give a little, yield a little, agree to something and take something back. It is time consuming.

At a recent meeting one board member was indiscreet enough to point out that a sentence in last year's contract immediately under consideration had a superfluous word in it, one that clouded the meaning. The chairman of his group paled under his healthy farmer's tan and demanded a caucus. A caucus means that one group or the other meets in the hall for a spot of private conversation.

Into the hall they went; the superfluous word, the chairman explained, was a bargaining word. He knew perfectly well it was superfluous; he would take it out if the other side objected, but only in return for another point "we" wanted.

Is that what goes on in the bargaining sessions between Mr. Walter Reuther and the Ford Company? Do they, as happened the other night in our town, spend an hour wrangling over the relative force of "shall" or "may"?

Probably they do. Word in, word out; deduction for this, reimbursement for that. One point was surprising to the board of our town. A member said we, a small rural area, couldn't be expected to match salaries offered in big cities. Our knowledgeable superintendent, who moderates the meetings, laughed. "We might have to pay more," he said. "They want to be in big cities or near them." One girl who was being offered a job in our school looked around at the countryside through which she was being driven; her eyes grew very wide. "All these trees!" she said. She didn't want the job.

So negotiations go on. And on.

Conservation: Topic for BPW

"The New Conservation Concept," will be discussed by guest speaker Daniel Smiley of Lake Mohonk, New Paltz, at a meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club on Tuesday, Jan. 9.

This announcement was made by program chairman Charlotte McGraw who also announced the meeting will be held in the garden lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Dinner at 6:30 p. m. with the program and business meeting afterwards.

In addition to the guest speaker, the Ulster County BPW will observe its third birthday as a chapter of the national and international Federation of BPW Clubs.

Smiley is a member of the Board of Governors and the Executive Committtee of The Nature Conservancy, is on the Ecological Committee of the national organization, and is on the Natural Areas Committee of the Eastern New York Chapter.

DANIEL SMILEY

In 1964 he was one of 10 nonprofessional conservationists selected to win the American Motors award for dedicated work in the field of renewable natural resources. He is on the conservation committees of both the Appalachian Mountain Club and the Adirondack Mountain Club. As chairman of the Research and Records Committee of the John Burroughs Natural History Society, he has authored and co-authored many articles and pamphlets. Mr. Smiley is active in the development of the Mid-Hudson - Catskills Museum, as vice chairman for sciences. He is also an expert nature photographer.

In addition to his natural history activities, Mr. Smiley is owner-operator, with his brother and cousin, of the Lake Mohonk Mountain House, in New Paltz, N. Y. He will speak on "The New Conservation Concept."

The Mature Parent

WHY WE 'LOVE' PEOPLE WHO PUT US IN WRONG

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Ten months ago my husband said he wanted a trial separation from me to find out why we weren't getting along. It was hard for me to agree to this as I love him. But he doesn't seem to even care about our 5-year-old girl. She had a recent birthday which he promised to celebrate with us. At the last minute, he phoned to say he had to leave town on business. When I told him how hurt the child would be, he said I had learned nothing but was still as unreasonable and demanding as ever . . .

ANSWER: Ah well, to learn can take more time than 10 months.

And now let me ask you something. How did your parents disappoint you when you were a little girl? If they had to break a promise to you, were they remorseful, sympathetic with your disappointment? Or did they attack you for the sadness it caused you? Because blaming us for their shortcomings is a trick our parents, along with other human beings, can be very fond of using. By suggesting, for instance, that we are unreasonable and demanding to resent disappointments they've caused us, parents, like other people, put us in the wrong in order to maintain themselves in the right.

Which is not too unlike what your husband has done, is it? First, he broke that birthday promise. Then, when you objected to this disappointment, he called you "unreasonable and demanding."

But, as you say, you "love" him. And that just could be how your cookie has to crumble. For if we are the children of people who blamed us for objecting to the disappointments they caused us, we're only too likely to believe we love" other people who do the same thing. That's because our parents' treatment of us is what establishes our notions of "love." Because it long has been the custom now for parents to talk and talk about how much they love children, it's very hard for children to see past the talk to the unloving facts of their conduct. As children of parents who tell us how muvh they love us, we will believe we love them back, despite the facts that they don't hesitate to break promises to us and then scold us for the sadness they inflict.

Unless we are brave enough to know the real meaning of their conduct, we may continue to believe that we "love" a husband who cannot love anyone either—the who also scolds us for the sadness he inflicts.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I am Home Service Adviser for a Public Service Electric and Gas Company. From my experience, I think that all new electric blankets come with a sticker or tag attached with says, "DO NOT DRY CLEAN."

Washing is the ONLY safe way to keep electric bedding clean. In fact, it should be laundered often, before soil becomes imbedded in the fibers.

If you are about to launder your first electric blanket, heed these simiple rules:

First, disconnect the control and shake the blanket to remove dust.

Second, scrub soiled bindings lightly with a sudsy, soft brush and pretreat any stains that same way.

Next, soak the entire blanket in cool suds for about ten minutes.

Then put it into clean suds—as warm as for a baby's bath (only 100 degrees), wash and rinse it at the SAME temperature, using an adequate amount of soap or detergent and plenty of water.

Avoid prolonged machine agitation or tumbling. Instructions usually suggest not more than three minutes of machine action. A SHORT spin cycle will remove most of the water and any remaining moisture can be gently pressed out by hand. NEVER put an electric blanket through a winger.

For hand-washing, use the bathtub which is large enough to immerse even a double blanket without crowding. Observe the same rules as to water temperature. Instead of of rubbing, use a plumber's plunger to "suck" the suds through the fabric. This loosens soil and eliminates lifting and squeezing the blanket.

Manufacturers recommend draping an electric blanket over two parallel lines to dry, straightening the edges and corners. And remember this: electric blankets are permanently moth-proofed during manufacture and MUST NOT be given further anti-moth treatment.

Fay Muzzy

We truly thank Fay and all the other readers who responded to the question.

Let me add a couple of more ideas:

To get most of the dust and loose dirt out of the blanket, vacuum it while it is still on the bed. Just run the vacuum wand over the blanket and it will suck most of the loose dust and lint out. I vacuum both sides.

If the electric cord or socket hangs from the blanket after you disconnect the controls, securely tie a sock or rag around it. This will keep it from banging around in the washing machine.

When granulated soap or detergent is used, be SURE it's all dissolved before putting in the blanket. Better to let your machine run a few minutes with the detergent water before putting your blanket in. Then you're positive.

Some manufacturers say their blankets can be dried in an automatic dryer using moderate heat but the U. S. Government says DON'T put them in a dryer at all! So, follow the instructions for drying that came with your particular brand of blanket. If they are machine-dried, they should be taken out before they are completely dry to prevent shrinking, then air-dried.

I brush mine lightly with a nylon hairbrush to fluff it up a bit after it's dry and it looks ever so nice.

CALCIUM IS LACKING IN DIET WITHOUT MILK

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

A mother asks how much milk a 2-year-old child should drink every day and whether there are any vitamin tablets her daughter could take in place of milk. A growing child should get three or four full 8-ounce glasses of milk a day. She will get enough of all essential food elements, including vitamins, in a well-balanced diet that does not include any milk, with one exception—calcium. A deficiency of calcium will result in softening of the bones and poor teeth. When a child doesn't like milk as such, she should get it in the form of cheese, ice cream or other foods that are made with milk.

* * *

Q—Should my 5- and 9-year-old children see a doctor when sinus trouble first appears or wait two or three weeks to see whether it will go away?

A—There is some sinus involvement with every head cold. If your child has an acute sinusitis in which drainage from a sinus is blocked, he will have fever and severe pain and tenderness in the region of the sinus. For such a condition, he should be seen by a doctor without delay. For a head cold that hangs on for more than three weeks, it is also wise to see your doctor.

* * *

Q—Our 14-year-old son takes Dilantin every night. Is this drug habit forming? Does it have any bad side effects?

A—This drug is not habit forming. Persons with epilepsy take it all their lives. If such side effects as drowsiness occur, the dosage may have to be reduced. Stomach upsets are prevented by giving it after meals.

* * *

Q—Our 1-year-old son toes in when he walks. Can this be corrected? When would be the best time for this?

A—This condition, pigeon-toe, when slight, is an advantage because it favors a high-arched foot and straight legs. If the condition is severe enough to interfere with walking, it should be corrected by inserting a ⅛- to ¼-inch lift in the outer (lateral) side of the soles of the shoes. This is done when he starts to wear shoes instead of booties.

Pre-Cana Conference Called for Jan. 14

A Pre-Cana Conference series for couples intending to be married within the next four months will be held in St. Joseph's School in Kingston on January 14-21. The conference on Sunday, Jan. 14 at 2:30 p. m. will be conducted by the Rev. James LaBar; on Tuesday, Jan. 16 at 7:30 p. m. by Brother Daniel Kirk; on Thursday, Jan. 18 at 7:30 p. m. by Dr. John Cook; and on Sunday, Jan. 21 at 2:30 p. m. by a panel of married couples.

According to the Rev. James LeBar of St. Joseph's, who is the Ulster County Director of Pre-Cana conferences, these conferences are designed to give the engaged couples a deeper understanding of marriage, its obligations, duties and privileges.

The conferences are sponsored by individual parishes under the direction of the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York. Q—Our 1-year-old son toes in when he walks. Can this be corrected? When would be the best time for this?

A—This condition, pigeon-toe, when slight, is an advantage because it favors a high-arched foot and straight legs. If the condition is severe enough to interfere with walking, it should be corrected by inserting a ⅛- to ¼-inch lift in the outer (lateral) side of the soles of the shoes. This is done when he starts to wear shoes instead of booties.

GREEN BEANS AMANDINE IN THE FRENCH MANNER

French Green Beans Amandine

Sauces have been used throughout culinary history, and today it is probably in French cuisine that sauces are the most varied and refined.

These Green Beans Amandine have an elegant cream sauce which has a subtle beef flavor, thanks to the addition of beef consomme. Celery, onion and chives add just the proper amount of bite to the rich sauce. The diagonal-cut green beans used in this recipe are especially eye appealing because they're cut slantwise to expose more of the inner meaty bean. Toasted slivered almonds give the desired crispness to this tasty vegetable dish.

GREEN BEANS AMANDINE

½ cup sliced celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup half and half cream
½ cup condensed beef consomme
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons dehydrated chives
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
One 16-oz. can diagonal-cut green beans, drained
½ cup toasted slivered almonds.

Saute celery and onion in butter until tender. Stir in flour. Add cream, consomme, salt, chives and pepper. Heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add beans and almonds; heat through. Yield: 6 servings (about 2½ cups.)

Good Breakfast Begins a Good School Day

Now that school is in full swing, the importance of an adequate breakfast is stressed again by nutritionists and educators. Long research proves that when school children have a good breakfast they do better work during morning hours, are more perceptive and tire less easily.

Today, thanks to the 1966 Federal Child Nutrition Act, more than 95,000 youngsters throughout the United States and Territories are starting their day with an adequate breakfast. They are needy children who come to school hungry because no breakfast is served them at home or who must travel long distances to get to school.

This pilot breakfast program now beginning its second year is part of an effort to improve the nutritional well-being of our nation's children. The breakfasts meet recognized nutrition standards and provide up to one-fourth of a child's daily food requirements.

In "Food for Families with School Children," published by Consumer Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the following breakfast menus are suggested: Grapefruit juice, wheat griddle cakes with syrup, milk for children; orange juice, hot wheat cereal with milk, toast, milk for children; stewed prunes, ready-to-eat cereal with milk, toast, milk for children; grapefruit juice, French toast, syrup, milk for children.

PUPILS ENJOYING hearty breakfast at school.

Tri-Hi Club Aids Infirmary Patients

Members of the Tri-Hi Club of the YWCA have made 50 visits to the Ulster County Infirmary as friends of the patients. This service project has been very successful and will continue in the new year. On Saturday, the girls, with their advisor Mrs. Kristen Jensen, call at the Infirmary in order to lend mealtime assistance to patients who may be blind or partially paralyzed. As friends, they visit and read with the patients and also aid in letter writing.

According to Mrs. Jensen, such service acts are an important part of YW teen programs. They help members develop an attitude of responsibility which is inherent in the YWCA purpose. The face to face relationship in the spirit of friendship reflects the organization's concern for people and the YWCA's interest in developing motivation for service and capacities for faith, goodwill and compassion. The visits made by the club members are valued by the patients and significant in the club's program.

FUSSY GUESTS CAN BE DROPPED FROM LIST

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a hostess ask her guests' preferences when she invites them to dinner? I asked a family to dinner recently and was told by the wife that the husband and son preferred chocolate cake and would eat only a certain brand of another food.

Should a hostess prepare both coffee and tea so that guests may have a choice? Also, is it correct to arrive 45 minutes before the appointed dinner time? —Mrs. J. Kelly

Dear Mrs. Kelly: The best advice I can give you is to drop these friends from your prospective guest list!

A. Guests have no right to state what they want for dinner, and a hostess has no obligation to ask.

B. A hostess need not prepare both tea and coffee, but it is considerate to have caffein-free coffee available for those who want it. Of course, if you have boiling water ready, either instant caffein-free coffee or a cup of tea made with a tea bag is ready in an instant.

C. Arriving 45 minutes early is worse than arriving 45 minutes late. No hostess should be expected to be ready more than a few minutes before the stated hour.

Thanks for Corporation Christmas Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband works for a large company. Each year at Christmas all the employes and their families receive a nice gift, accompanied by the business card of the man in charge of the company. Does this call for a thank-you note? —Irene

Dear Irene: No, a thank-you note is not required if this is a company policy for all employes. If, on occasion, some personnel receive presents—perhaps for a special service rendered—such gifts must be acknowledged.

Bride Wants to Place Bouquet On Grandfather's Grave

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and would like to know if it would be wrong to go to my grandfather's grave and place my bridal bouquet on it after leaving the church?—Laura M.

Dear Laura: This is a lovely thought and gesture. However, if it were not too far, it might be even better to stop at the cemetery when you leave to go on your honeymoon, so that you could continue to carry your flowers through the reception.

Proper Toys Help Infants

Babies are such special creatures that their arrival into the world usually triggers kindly grandparents, indulgent fathefs, doting aunts, and well wishers into showering the infant with an avalanche of toys.

And toys are certainly important to baby: he learns through play, with toys serving as the tools which help him make the most of his capabilities. However, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist, there is really only one toy an infant is equipped to enjoy during his first three or four months. All the cuddly animals, squeaky rubber items, and even the traditional rattle might best be stored at the start.

The experts believe that a child's very first toy should be a brightly colored mobile that can be seen and followed with his eyes, because the first motor control he shows is eye movement. He will enjoy a dangling, bright object—no baby pinks or blues — for some time, just watching it before he learns to grasp it.

At three or four months, however, baby discovers his hands. Now is the time to bring out cradle gyms, with bars and rings and homemade dangles like wooden rings and plastic bracelets attached to the top of the crib. Little bells, attached to the dangles, tinkle when pulled and make even more exciting the adventure of learning how to grasp.

It's time, too, for rattles— an array of them in various colors, shapes, and sound will help stimulate baby's interest. One-piece molded rattles are safest; if there are separate parts, they should be tested to make sure that they don't come apart easily.

Rubber squeeze toys are excellent — especially those with arms, legs, and tails to grasp. It is wise to avoid the kinds with metal whistles that are dangerous because they can be pushed out or may fall out with use. Toys with the sound mechanism vulcanized permanently into place are safest.

When baby is about six months old, he'll like soft dolls and cuddly animals to hug and pat. And as soon as he is able to sit up, he'll want rubber, plastic, or cloth balls to push and reach for. Teethers go for teething rings and strings of beads to bite. And company in the bath is always welcmoe — especially when it's a bright, floating toy.

Baby, though, may show an interest for almost everything in his reach. Anything he is allowed to grasp should meet these requirements:

- lightweight — because his muscles are tiny,
- brightly colored — because he can't distinguish subtle shades,
- varied textures—to develop his sense of touch,
- smooth-edged —to protect tender skin,
- large—to avoid being swallowed,
- varied sounds—to develop hearing, and
- varied shapes—for learning forms.

And because babies love to test their gums and approaching teeth on anything, it is vital that everything within his reach—especially his toys — be clean and sanitary.

Toys made from today's multitude of plastics are easiest to keep clean. Plastics,along with rubber and wood toys, should be thoroughly scrubbed with soap or detergent at least as often as baby himself is bathed. A piece of waterproof adhesive placed over any holes will prevent water from seeping inside.

Soft cuddly toys vary to washability methods. Most of those of foam rubber or Dralon(a new, nylon-based synthetic material) can be washed by machine, but some are best submerged in sudsy water and washed by hand.

Those with a heavier stuffing, such as mohair or kapok, should be surface - washed — using a brush covered with dense "dry" suds, then rinse - wipe with a clean damp cloth or sponge. When the stuffed animals or doll has a plush or furry finish, adding fabric softener to the final rinse will leave a soft, silky, unmatted finish.

Toys with "slipcovers" are very easy to keep clean. Just remove the cover, wash it in warm or hot suds (depending on the fabric), then rinse and pull it into shape for drying. While still damp, press the cover with a warm iron and fit it back over the toy.

For any toy, it is best to read the manufacturer's label for washing instructions. And be sure to wash all of baby's toys often—especially when handled by visitors—to make playtime both the happiest and the healthiest time.

Despite Unions, Dog Tracks and Draft Rumors

'Serious' Rams Jolt Browns, 30-6

MIAMI (AP) — Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams said, "we took this game as seriously as any game we've played," and the Rams reflected it by drubbing the Cleveland Browns 30-6 in the National Football League Playoff Bowl in the Orange Bowl Sunday.

'We wanted to let the world know this is as good a team as any playing next week," Allen said, referring to the Super Bowl game between the Green Bay Packers and Oakland Raiders in the same stadium next Sunday.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel of the Rams, voted the Most Valuable Player in the game, expressed his pleasure to a nationwide television audience when he said:

"I want to thank everybody in Miami for making our stay here so enjoyable."

He didn't mention the Browns, but he might have for they didn't come alive until the last quarter and scored with just over four minutes left in the game.

"I hear everybody talk about nobody getting up for this game," said David "Deacon" Jones, 260-pound defensive end for the Rams. "Let me tell you, these guys have a lot of pride."

Team Has Incentive

Allen said his whole club had incentive despite distractings from the Teamsters Union, pre-draft rumors and a visit to a dog track.

We got a lot of calls and criticisms for working twice," he said of Wednesday's unprecedented double practice session. "But that's the only way to play."

A Cleveland Browns' official, who asked not to be identified, blamed the union talk for part of his team's listless first half.

The National Football League Players' Association met Saturday night in Hollywood and agreed to register as a union with the U.S. Department of Labor.

Art Modell, president of the Browns, admitted that the meeting "didn't attract half" the Browns' play, and said a personnel shakeup was ahead.

Gabriel Sparkles

Gabriel threw 21 yards to Bernie Casey and two yards to Billy Truax for first half touchdowns and hit Tommy Mason for 43 yards to set up a third in the final period on Willie Ellison's nine-yard run.

Bruce, Gossett, breaking the field goal records for the game, booted three from 41, 46 and 19 yards and added three conversions for a 12-point production.

The Rams' "Fearsome Foursome" front line defense of Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Lamar Lundy, let the Browns get away only once.

This was in the last period when Cleveland moved 81 yards to a touchdown scored by LeRoy Kelly from two yards out. The big play was a 34-yard pass from Gary Lane to Paul Warfield.

Gabriel said the Rams came to Miami for some fun in the sun—it was 80 degrees at game time—as well as the $1,200 each winning player received.

"Next year we won't be here for this game," Gabriel said. "We'll be No. 1."

The crowd of 37,102 was far below last year's 65,569.

Week's Sports Schedule 26 Events

Twenty six events in four different sports make up this heaviest week of the 1967-68 college and high school athletic schedule. Included are contests in basketball, wrestling, skiing and swimming.

The Kingston High-Monticello DUSO League basketball clash Tuesday night at the Kate Walton field house tops the 10-game scholastic slate for the night. In addition there are three college basketball games, college swimming meet, two wrestling matches and the seasonal opener for the KHS swimming squad.

Kingston High's defending DUSO basketball champions crushed Middletown in the league opener Friday but should find Monticello made of sterner stuff tomorrow night. Newburgh is at Port Jervis, then hosts Kingston Friday night in a game that is traditionally rugged for the locals.

Tie Is Possible

Marlboro Central (4-1) can tie for the UCAL lead Tuesday night by defeating winless Wallkill (0-4) at Wallkill. The league leading Onteora Indians (5-1) have a non-league contest at Fallsburgh of the DUSO Village league.

In other action, Pine Bush (2-3) seeks to even its record against New Paltz (3-2). Rondout Valley (2-2) is expected to triumph over winless Highland (0-4), making the NP — Pine Bush battle a tussle for third place behind Onteora and Marlboro.

In the DCSL, Pine Plains travels to Wappingers and Red Hook is at Saugerties in non-league contests. PP and Red Hook are in the second section of the DCSL.

In regular play, Beacon (2-2) and fighting off the effects of a lethargic start is expected to clobber Cardinal Farley.

Ten Games Friday

Ten games are scheduled Friday night, headed by the Kingston at Newburgh DUSO fracas. Coach Jack Gilligan's Maroons were impressive in their 105-70 romp over Middletown and will have the added experience of the Monticello before invading Newburgh. Middletown plays at Monticello.

Friday night could be a night of surprises in the UCAL league where a red hot pennant race is shaping up. Rondout, rated a strong contender before the season opened, has a chance to upset Marlboro, beaten only by Onteora at Boiceville. The Indians may find the going much tougher at New Paltz where the Huguenots are always tough on their home boards. Pine Bush and Wallkill clash in the other UCAL game.

Upset Possible

If Greg Kohls and Bob O'Connor get a little help from their teammates, Roosevelt has a chance to upset Poughkeepsie in the DCSL Friday. But the experts lean toward the Pioneers.

Rebounding Beacon is expected to handle Our Lady of Lourdes, while Arlington is heavily favored against Wappingers Falls and Scott McCandlish is expected to turn in another superlative performance.

Ellenville meets Port Jervis in a non-league game Friday.

State University Hawks at New Paltz travel to UCCC for a wrestling match and host Harpur College in a swimming meet in other Friday action.

Fouls Wreck 76ers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Technicals and technique—they cost Alex Hannum and the Philadelphia 76ers.

The technicals—two fouls called almost simultaneously on the 76ers coach—cost Hannum a chance to see all of Sunday's National Basketball Association game at Cincinnati as he was ejected with 3:36 left in the third quarter for protesting a personal foul call.

The technique—run and shoot by Cincinnati—cost the 76ers a chance to increase their Eastern Division lead over idle Boston to four games as the Royals rolled to a 134-118 victory.

There was no other action in the NBA. In the American Basketball Association, Dallas topped New Orleans 113-101, Minnesota edged Indiana 109-106 and New Jersey walloped Anaheim 121-102.

Cincinnati really ran and shot in the fourth quarter—maybe it was just as well for Hannum's nerves that he wasn't around—when they outscored the 76ers 44-32 by hitting on 61 per cent of their field goal attempts, 16 of 26.

Jerry Lucas led Cincinnati with 34 points and a game-high 27 rebounds. Oscar Robertson added 30 points and Connie Dierking 26. Wilt Chamberlain paced Philadelphia with 36 points and 25 rebounds.

In Saturday's games, Indiana beat Houston 103-97 and Dallas downed Kentucky, 108-96 while Baltimore edged Los Angeles 130-127 in overtime, New York drubbed Detroit 118-101, Philadelphia whipped St. Louis 107-96, San Francisco upset Boston 107-101, Seattle trounced San Diego 122-104 and Chicago defeated Cincinnati 114-109.

Set Swim Clinic At New Paltz

State University College at New Paltz will hold a swimming clinic under the direction of John Ryan, West Point varsity swimming coach and Art Stockin, varsity coach at New Paltz, at the Elting Pool at State U. Jan. 17, at 7:30 p. m.

All physical edcuation instructors, swimming coaches, administrators and students are invited ot attend.

Coach Ryan led Army to the top of the eastern swimming competition in the winter of 1966 when the Cadets won all 13 of their meets, including a 48-47 victory over Yale. This was the Cadet's second win over Yale. Ryan's teams have won 60 of 68 meets in the last four years, and have been runnersup in the eastern seaboard competition for the past two seasons.

Many topics will be covered, among them: diving, what to do in practice, how to train and prepare a swimming team. There will be workshop demonstrations and a question and answer period on the mechanics of swimming strokes and turns.

Dutch Frolick Tops Clinton

Old Dutch Reformed romped to an easy 52-32 win over Clinton Avenue, Hurley Reformed overcame a five point first quarter deficit to edge Immanuel 30-29, St. James overcame Redeemer by two, 28-26 with scoring even except in the third period; and St. George toppled a shorthanded Fair Street team that played only four men by a lopsided 55-11 junior church league basketball at the YMCA.

Results:

Old Dutch Reformed (52)—Kirkpatrick 3, Curran 12, Ennis 12, McClearn 0, Jensen 25. Clinton Avenue (32)— H. Pine 8, Bruno 12, Brooks 2, Janier 2, W. Pine 6, Williams 2.

UP AND OVER — Los Angeles Rams quarterback Roman Gabriel goes up and over the top of Cleveland Browns' Jim Houston (82) as he picks up short yardage during the 8th annual Pro Bowl playoff classic at Miami's Orange Bowl. Rams won, 30-6. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Despite Unions, Dog Tracks and Draft Rumors

'Serious' Rams Jolt Browns, 30-6

MIAMI (AP) — Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams said, "we took this game as seriously as any game we've played," and the Rams reflected it by drubbing the Cleveland Browns 30-6 in the National Football League Playoff Bowl in the Orange Bowl Sunday.

'We wanted to let the world know this is as good a team as any playing next week," Allen said, referring to the Super Bowl game between the Green Bay Packers and Oakland Raiders in the same stadium next Sunday.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel of the Rams, voted the Most Valuable Player in the game, expressed his pleasure to a nationwide television audience when he said:

"I want to thank everybody in Miami for making our stay here so enjoyable."

He didn't mention the Browns, but he might have for they didn't come alive until the last quarter and scored with just over four minutes left in the game.

"I hear everybody talk about nobody getting up for this game," said David "Deacon" Jones, 260-pound defensive end for the Rams. "Let me tell you, these guys have a lot of pride."

Team Has Incentive

Allen said his whole club had incentive despite distractings from the Teamsters Union, predraft rumors and a visit to a dog track.

We got a lot of calls and criticisms for working twice," he said of Wednesday's unprecedented double practice session. "But that's the only way to play."

A Cleveland Browns' official, who asked not to be identified, blamed the union talk for part of his team's listless first half.

The National Football League Players' Association met Saturday night in Hollywood and agreed to register as a union with the U.S. Department of Labor.

Art Modell, president of the Browns, admitted that the meeting "didn't attract half" the Browns' play, and said a personnel shakeup was ahead.

Gabriel Sparkles

Gabriel threw 21 yards to Bernie Casey and two yards to Billy Truax for first half touchdowns and hit Tommy Mason for 43 yards to set up a third in the final period on Willie Ellison's nine-yard run.

Bruce, Gossett, breaking the field goal records for the game, booted three from 41, 46 and 19 yards and added three conversions for a 12-point production.

The Rams' "Fearsome Foursome" front line defense of Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Lamar Lundy, let the Browns get away only once.

This was in the last period when Cleveland moved 81 yards to a touchdown scored by LeRoy Kelly from two yards out. The big play was a 34-yard pass from Gary Lane to Paul Warfield.

Gabriel said the Rams came to Miami for some fun in the sun—it was 80 degrees at game time—as well as the $1,200 each winning player received.

"Next year we won't be here for this game," Gabriel said. "We'll be No. 1."

The crowd of 37,102 was far below last year's 65,569.

Week's Sports Schedule 26 Events

Twenty six events in four different sports make up this heaviest week of the 1967-68 college and high school athletic schedule. Included are contests in basketball, wrestling, skiing and swimming.

The Kingston High-Monticello DUSO League basketball clash Tuesday night at the Kate Walton field house tops the 10-game scholastic slate for the night. In addition there are three college basketball games, college swimming meet, two wrestling matches and the seasonal opener for the KHS swimming squad.

Kingston High's defending DUSO basketball champions crushed Middletown in the league opener Friday but should find Monticello made of sterner stuff tomorrow night. Newburgh is at Port Jervis, then hosts Kingston Friday night in a game that is traditionally rugged for the locals.

Tie Is Possible

Marlboro Central (4-1) can tie for the UCAL lead Tuesday night by defeating winless Wallkill (0-4) at Wallkill. The league leading Onteora Indians (5-1) have a non-league contest at Fallsburgh of the DUSO Village league.

In other action, Pine Bush (2-3) seeks to even its record against New Paltz (3-2). Rondout Valley (2-2) is expected to triumph over winless Highland (0-4), making the NP — Pine Bush battle a tussle for third place behind Onteora and Marlboro.

In the DCSL, Pine Plains travels to Wappingers and Red Hook is at Saugerties in non-league contests. PP and Red Hook are in the second section of the DCSL.

In regular play, Beacon (2-2) and fighting off the effects of a lethargic start is expected to clobber Cardinal Farley.

Ten Games Friday

Ten games are scheduled Friday night, headed by the Kingston at Newburgh DUSO fracas. Coach Jack Gilligan's Maroons were impressive in their 105-70 romp over Middletown and will have the added experience of the Monticello before invading Newburgh. Middletown plays at Monticello.

Friday night could be a night of surprises in the UCAL league where a red hot pennant race is shaping up. Rondout, rated a strong contender before the season opened, has a chance to upset Marlboro, beaten only by Onteora at Boiceville. The Indians may find the going much tougher at New Paltz where the Huguenots are always tough on their home boards. Pine Bush and Wallkill clash in the other UCAL game.

Set Swim Clinic At New Paltz

State University College at New Paltz will hold a swimming clinic under the direction of John Ryan, West Point varsity swimming coach and Art Stockin, varsity coach at New Paltz, at the Elting Pool at State U. Jan. 17, at 7:30 p. m.

All physical edcuation instructors, swimming coaches, administrators and students are invited ot attend.

Coach Ryan led Army to the top of the eastern swimming competition in the winter of 1966 when the Cadets won all 13 of their meets, including a 48-47 victory over Yale. This was the Cadet's second win over Yale. Ryan's teams have won 60 of 68 meets in the last four years, and have been runnersup in the eastern seaboard competition for the past two seasons.

Many topics will be covered, among them: diving, what to do in practice, how to train and prepare a swimming team. There will be workshop demonstrations and a question and answer period on the mechanics of swimming strokes and turns.

Dutch Frolick Tops Clinton

Old Dutch Reformed romped to an easy 52-32 win over Clinton Avenue, Hurley Reformed overcame a five point first quarter deficit to edge Immanuel 30-29, St. James overcame Redeemer by two, 28-26 with scoring even except in the third period; and St. George toppled a shorthanded Fair Street team that played only four men by a lopsided 55-11 junior church league basketball at the YMCA.

UCCC Five Routs State U. Frosh, 116-56

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Ulster County Community College Senators picked up their 13th win of the season Saturday night and it was by far their easiest to date. And Joe Uhl scored only 12 points!

Coach Mike Perry's once-beaten quintet got off 102 shots against State University College Frosh at New Paltz and romped to a lethargic 116-56 victory. They hit on 49 per cent, with Frank Roselli and Leon Hanna taking over the scoring leadership generally monopolized by Jumpin' Joe Uhl.

Ulster's dogged defense limited the Hawk Frosh to only 24 shots but they bagged a surprising 46 per cent to keep the final score from being worse than it was.

Two Games This Week

The UCCC squad — looking ahead to a road game Wednesday at Westchester and Friday with Concordia at home—would have preferred the State U. varsity as an opponent, but they were off to the wars with Stony Brook.

Coach Perry, who admitted it was a tough job trying to get his boys "up" for this one, had a chance to use his entire squad of 12 players.

Hanna's Hot Half

Roselli led the club with 24 points but an eye catching performance by Hanna overshadowed the other individual exploits. The ace rebounder sat out 17 minutes of the first half then scored all his 20 points in the second half. He scored at will with offensive rebounds and layups.

Uhl picked up his seasonal low of 12 points in only minutes of play. He was badly in need of a rest and UCCC could afford to rest him in this outing. Co-Captain Rod Chando and Fred White had 10 apiece and Stan Henderson finished with 11. Top men for State U. were Van Fleet (15) and Merz (11).

It was never a contest after Roselli scored 8 of Ulster's first 12 points. The Senators led 54-23 at the half and despite frequent substitutions maintained the ratio with a 62-33 second half margin.

UCCC maintained its seasonal scoring average at 116.2 points for 14 games, while limiting the opposition to 79.5. State Frosh was playing only their second game to date. They lost to Marist Frosh in the opener.

Ulster Pinmen Sweep Met League Laurels

Ulster County Community College bowlers swept every honor available to them in the Metropolitan Community College bowling league Saturday.

They wrapped up the championship by routing Rockland CCC, 7-0, to finish the regular season with a points record of 53 won and 7 lost to outdistance their opponents, who finished second with, 51-19.

It was the eighth 7-0 sweep in 10 starts for the locals and avenged their only loss of the season, a 5-2 setback in the first meeting with Rockland.

Numerous Trophies

The Senator pinmen returned to Kingston from the Bayside Lanes in Queens, scene of the action, loaded down with trophies.

Each member received a trophy. There was a school trophy and additional team trophies for league high single and series—1069 and 3024—both all-time league highs and for high team average, 930.

John Schatzel Jr., who finished the season with a 599 series, earned the individual average award with 194.13.

He was named to the league all-star seven-man squad along with teammates Don Gregorius (188 average) and Joe Mannello (186 average).

Regionals Next

Next stop for the red hot Senators is the Regional tournament at Farmingdale, L. I. Date will be announced.

Rolling on tough, fast lanes, the UCCC squad was able to blank Rockland with a modest 2695 effort. The losers had 2567.

Schatzel's 593 led Ulster and Gregorius posted 573. Harry Heinshimer led Rockland with 593 and Ed Grzeiak, No. 2 average man in the league, tailed off to 507.

Sawyer Frosh Take Two Games

Saugerties freshmen led all the way to down Cardinal Farley 47-32 last Thursday at Farley, and continued their winning ways with a come from behind victory over LaGrange, 40-37, on Saturday.

Dave Smith's 13 points paced the Sawyers, as Saugerties controled both boards and contained Cadet scoring with a man to man press defense that forced many turnovers. John Greeran led Cardinal Farley with 21 markers.

LaGrange led al the way until the fourth period. Saugerties turned on the press in the final period and controlled the boards to overcome a 34-26 deficit. Bill Ono hit for two in the final minute to put the Sawyers ahead 38-37, then chalked up two foul shots to ice the win. He led the scoring attack with 15 points. John Nelson sparked LeGrange with 18 points.

Sawyer frosh, 4-1 to date, play MJM tomorrow at Kingston.

Sherwood and Rand Cop Jumping Titles

Roy Sherwood of Salisbury, Conn., won the New York State Ski Jumping Championship and two other trophies Sunday at Bear Mountain.

Sherwood earned the title with jumps of 108 and 133 feet for 173.6 points, and his jump of 133 feet brought him the Harold D. Nelson Memorial Trophy for being the best of the day.

Then, on a third jump that didn't count toward the state crown, he soared to 135 feet, raising his point total to 269 and winning the FDR trophy.

In other events, Earle Murphy of Farmingdale won the Veterans class with jumps of 124 and 130 feet for 173.3 points, and Egil Evensen took the Class B crown with 122-18 for 1756.

In Saturday's jump, Sherwood placed second behind 17-year-old Jay Rand of Northwood School, Lake Placid, who captured the 23rd annual Torger Tokle Memorial event with 210.3 points on jumps of 159 and 149 feet. Rand, a member of the National Junior Team, was competing in his first Class A event.

Sherwood had 201.2 points on jumps of 141-143 feet and Knut Stromstad of Bear Mountain (134-127) was a distant third with 185.6 points.

In the Junior A division, Matt Biamonte, 16, Lake Placid High soph, led with 202 points on leaps of 145 and 144 feet.

50 Club's Rally Edges Joe's

Hull Bags 401 Career Goals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull's non-stop sprint in the National Hockey League's all-time goal-scoring race has carried the Chicago Black Hawks' superstar past another checkpoint. And he's still in too much of a hurry to look back.

'I'll just have to take them as they come," Hull said Sunday night after his 400th and 401st career goals helped Chicago's East Division leaders beat second place Boston 4-2.

Hull became the fourth 400-goal scorer in NHL history—joining Detroit's Gordie Howe, Montreal's Jean Beliveau and ex-Canadien star Maurice Richard—with a 45-foot blast midway in the second period. He started on the way to 500 with an open-net tally in the final minute.

"I'll keep playing and scoring, I hope, until the day comes when I'm plagued with injuries and no longer a help to the team," he said.

St. Mary's JVs Romp, CYO Win

St. Mary's blanked St. Joseph's in the first period, then scored at least ten points in each of the next three quarters to take an easy contest 39-14, in CYO jayvee action Saturday.

Jim Ferraro sank eight field goals for 16 points to lead the parade for St. Mary's, as practically the whole squad got into the act. Doug Madden's eight points were high for St. Joseph.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Ulster County Community College Senators picked up their 13th win of the season Saturday night and it was by far their easiest to date. And Joe Uhl scored only 12 points!

Coach Mike Perry's once-beaten quintet got off 102 shots against State University College Frosh at New Paltz and romped to a lethargic 116-56 victory. They hit on 49 per cent, with Frank Roselli and Leon Hanna taking over the scoring leadership generally monopolized by Jumpin' Joe Uhl.

Ulster's dogged defense limited the Hawk Frosh to only 24 shots but they bagged a surprising 46 per cent to keep the final score from being worse than it was.

Two Games This Week

The UCCC squad — looking ahead to a road game Wednesday at Westchester and Friday with Concordia at home—would have preferred the State U. varsity as an opponent, but they were off to the wars with Stony Brook.

Coach Perry, who admitted it was a tough job trying to get his boys "up" for this one, had a chance to use his entire squad of 12 players.

Hanna's Hot Half

Roselli led the club with 24 points but an eye catching performance by Hanna overshadowed the other individual exploits. The ace rebounder sat out 17 minutes of the first half then scored all his 20 points in the second half. He scored at will with offensive rebounds and layups.

Uhl picked up his seasonal low of 12 points in only minutes of play. He was badly in need of a rest and UCCC could afford to rest him in this outing. Co-Captain Rod Chando and Fred White had 10 apiece and Stan Henderson finished with 11. Top men for State U. were Van Fleet (15) and Merz (11).

It was never a contest after Roselli scored 8 of Ulster's first 12 points. The Senators led 54-23 at the half and despite frequent substitutions maintained the ratio with a 62-33 second half margin.

UCCC maintained its seasonal scoring average at 116.2 points for 14 games, while limiting the opposition to 79.5. State Frosh was playing only their second game to date. They lost to Marist Frosh in the opener.

Ulster Pinmen Sweep Met League Laurels

Ulster County Community College bowlers swept every honor available to them in the Metropolitan Community College bowling league Saturday.

They wrapped up the championship by routing Rockland CCC, 7-0, to finish the regular season with a points record of 53 won and 7 lost to outdistance their opponents, who finished second with, 51-19.

It was the eighth 7-0 sweep in 10 starts for the locals and avenged their only loss of the season, a 5-2 setback in the first meeting with Rockland.

Numerous Trophies

The Senator pinmen returned to Kingston from the Bayside Lanes in Queens, scene of the action, loaded down with trophies.

Each member received a trophy. There was a school trophy and additional team trophies for league high single and series—1069 and 3024—both all-time league highs and for high team average, 930.

John Schatzel Jr., who finished the season with a 599 series, earned the individual average award with 194.13.

He was named to the league all-star seven-man squad along with teammates Don Gregorius (188 average) and Joe Mannello (186 average).

Regionals Next

Next stop for the red hot Senators is the Regional tournament at Farmingdale, L. I. Date will be announced.

Rolling on tough, fast lanes, the UCCC squad was able to blank Rockland with a modest 2695 effort. The losers had 2567.

Schatzel's 599 led Ulster and Gregorius posted 573. Harry Heinshimer led Rockland with 593 and Ed Grzeiak, No. 2 average man in the league, tailed off to 507.

The scores:

Sherwood and Rand Cop Jumping Titles

Roy Sherwood of Salisbury, Conn., won the New York State Ski Jumping Championship and two other trophies Sunday at Bear Mountain.

Sherwood earned the title with jumps of 108 and 133 feet for 173.6 points, and his jump of 133 feet brought him the Harold D. Nelson Memorial Trophy for being the best of the day.

Then, on a third jump that didn't count toward the state crown, he soared to 135 feet, raising his point total to 269 and winning the FDR trophy.

In other events, Earle Murphy of Farmingdale won the Veterans class with jumps of 124 and 130 feet for 173.3 points, and Egil Evensen took the Class B crown with 122-18 for 1756.

In Saturday's jump, Sherwood placed second behind 17-year-old Jay Rand of Northwood School, Lake Placid, who captured the 23rd annual Torger Tokle Memorial event with 210.3 points on jumps of 159 and 149 feet. Rand, a member of the National Junior Team, was competing in his first Class A event.

Sherwood had 201.2 points on jumps of 141-143 feet and Knut Stromstad of Bear Mountain (134-127) was a distant third with 185.6 points.

50 Club's Rally Edges Joe's

Rick Broberg scored 12 points in the fourth quarter, as 50 Club overcame a 55-52 deficit to edge Joe's Barber Shop, 77-73, in the YMCA "A" league. Joe's led 42-34 at the half.

Bill Tomaseskie and Dick Shorter led the winners with 19 points. Broberg and Benjamin hit 13 apiece. Howie Mayfield (25) and Mel Williams (23) sparked Joe's.

Ed Norton (30 points) and Frank Allen (25) led a last quarter surge in Conlin Oil's 72-70 squeaker over Schaller's Texaco in a "B" league contest. The tying basket was on the rim but failed to drop in at the buzzer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — James H. Lemon, formerly vice president, has been named chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Washington Senators, it was announced Wednesday.

He succeeds the late James M. Johnston. Lemon, a Washington financier, is not related to Jim Lemon, the Senators' games.

Hull Bags 401 Career Goals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull's non-stop sprint in the National Hockey League's all-time goal-scoring race has carried the Chicago Black Hawks' superstar past another checkpoint. And he's still in too much of a hurry to look back.

'I'll just have to take them as they come," Hull said Sunday night after his 400th and 401st career goals helped Chicago's East Division leaders beat second place Boston 4-2.

Hull became the fourth 400-goal scorer in NHL history—joining Detroit's Gordie Howe, Montreal's Jean Beliveau and ex-Canadien star Maurice Richard—with a 45-foot blast midway in the second period. He started on the way to 500 with an open-net tally in the final minute.

"I'll keep playing and scoring, I hope, until the day comes when I'm plagued with injuries and no longer a help to the team," he said.

JCC Five Wins First MHC Game

Kingston Jewish Community Center basketball team trounced Monticello JCC, 67-38, at Monticello for its first win in the Mid-Hudson Valley JCC league.

Sawyer Frosh Take Two Games

Saugerties freshmen led all the way to down Cardinal Farley 47-32 last Thursday at Farley, and continued their winning ways with a come from behind victory over LaGrange, 40-37, on Saturday.

Dave Smith's 13 points paced the Sawyers, as Saugerties controled both boards and contained Cadet scoring with a man to man press defense that forced many turnovers. John Greeran led Cardinal Farley with 21 markers.

LaGrange led al the way until the fourth period. Saugerties turned on the press in the final period and controlled the boards to overcome a 34-26 deficit. Bill Ono hit for two in the final minute to put the Sawyers ahead 38-37, then chalked up two foul shots to ice the win. He led the scoring attack with 15 points. John Nelson sparked LeGrange with 18 points.

Sawyer frosh, 4-1 to date, play MJM tomorrow at Kingston.

Will Try to Halt Foreign Film Making

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For years Hollywood's labor leaders have been complaining about "runaway production"—the flight of film making to foreign countries. Now they are planning to do something about it.

On Jan. 18, the labor men will meet in Washington with California Sens. Thomas Kuchel and George Murphy and present proposals to halt the overseas drift of film production. The leaders will represent virtually all segments of studio labor—actors, writers, directors, musicians, plus the craft unions.

The cause for their concern was illustrated in a recent survey by Daily Variety. The trade paper reported that 54 per cent of the 210 feature movies filmed by the 13 principal companies were made in foreign lands. In addition, 29 others filmed abroad were picked up for release by the companies.

Just 97 Features

These figures can be translated into the loss of many jobs for Hollywood's film workers. Last year only 97 features were filmed in the United States, and many were shot on location in New York. Ten years ago, American companies released 533 features, most filmed in Hollywood.

In recent years television production took up much of the slack created by overseas filming.

"But now TV filming has been cut 'way down," says a labor leader. "The networks have been putting on old movies six nights a week—next season they'll be on every night. That means the elimination of many filmed series that could be filling that time.

"Also, the trend has been to more hour- and 90-minute shows, which means fewer jobs. Two half-hour series employ twice the number of workers than an hour show does."

Another reason for the loss of jobs in filmed television: the upsurge of variety shows, produced on tape. And some of the network series have been filmed in foreign countries—"Tarzan," "Maya," etc.

Must Take Action

The labor leaders plan to tell the California senators that action must be taken to restore Hollywood's pre-eminence in the film world. Much of their argument centers on what they consider the unfair competition created by foreign subsidies.

Nearly every film-making country offers some form of inducement for film makers. The most notable is England, with its famed Eady plan. Since England provides bountiful talent, cheaper labor and no language barrier, American companies are naturally inclined to make films there. But the biggest inducement is the government-sponsored subsidy, which often pays production costs by receipts in England alone.

The result: 80 per cent of the features produced in England are financed by American companies.

No one yet knows whether President Johnson's recent moves to prevent the gold outflow will diminish the American investment in overseas filming. But Hollywood's labor isn't waiting to find out. The leaders believe action should be taken now for an American film subsidy or some other means to restore prosperity to the Hollywood studios.

Creole Influences

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Although English is spoken and understood throughout the island, the popular language in Haiti is Creole.

According to etymologists, Creole is three-quarters Norman French, brought to the island by buccaneers 300 years ago; a few words of modern French; some Spanish; a little English; Carib Indian; and a hint of African, all slurred with the softening influence of the tropics.

Haitians also enrich Creole with imitations of sounds. If a man falls down lightly they say "Li tomber bap," (he falls down bap). If he falls with a great crash, it is "Li tomber boum!"

Will Try to Halt Foreign Film Making

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For years Hollywood's labor leaders have been complaining about "runaway production"—the flight of film making to foreign countries. Now they are planning to do something about it.

On Jan. 18, the labor men will meet in Washington with California Sens. Thomas Kuchel and George Murphy and present proposals to halt the overseas drift of film production. The leaders will represent virtually all segments of studio labor—actors, writers, directors, musicians, plus the craft unions.

The cause for their concern was illustrated in a recent survey by Daily Variety. The trade paper reported that 54 per cent of the 210 feature movies filmed by the 13 principal companies were made in foreign lands. In addition, 29 others filmed abroad were picked up for release by the companies.

Just 97 Features

These figures can be translated into the loss of many jobs for Hollywood's film workers. Last year only 97 features were filmed in the United States, and many were shot on location in New York. Ten years ago, American companies released 533 features, most filmed in Hollywood.

In recent years television production took up much of the slack created by overseas filming.

"But now TV filming has been cut 'way down," says a labor leader. "The networks have been putting on old movies six nights a week—next season they'll be on every night. That means the elimination of many filmed series that could be filling that time.

"Also, the trend has been to more hour- and 90-minute shows, which means fewer jobs. Two half-hour series employ twice the number of workers than an hour show does."

Another reason for the loss of jobs in filmed television: the upsurge of variety shows, produced on tape. And some of the network series have been filmed in foreign countries—"Tarzan," "Maya," etc.

Must Take Action

The labor leaders plan to tell the California senators that action must be taken to restore Hollywood's pre-eminence in the film world. Much of their argument centers on what they consider the unfair competition created by foreign subsidies.

Nearly every film-making country offers some form of inducement for film makers. The most notable is England, with its famed Eady plan. Since England provides bountiful talent, cheaper labor and no language barrier, American companies are naturally inclined to make films there. But the biggest inducement is the government-sponsored subsidy, which often pays production costs by receipts in England alone.

The result: 80 per cent of the features produced in England are financed by American companies.

No one yet knows whether President Johnson's recent moves to prevent the gold outflow will diminish the American investment in overseas filming. But Hollywood's labor isn't waiting to find out. The leaders believe action should be taken now for an American film subsidy or some other means to restore prosperity to the Hollywood studios.

Creole Influences

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Although English is spoken and understood throughout the island, the popular language in Haiti is Creole.

According to etymologists, Creole is three-quarters Norman French, brought to the island by buccaneers 300 years ago; a few words of modern French; some Spanish; a little English; Carib Indian; and a hint of African, all slurred with the softening influence of the tropics.

Haitians also enrich Creole with imitations of sounds. If a man falls down lightly they say "Li tomber bap," (he falls down bap). If he falls with a great crash, it is "Li tomber boum!"

Dear Abby

Couple Feud Over Gifts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: It's Christmas morning in our household and my husband and I have had quite a falling out. Before Christmas we agreed not to spend more than $15 on each other because we are on a budget. And that's all we could afford.

Well, I ended up spending $21 on him because I honestly couldn't find anything I thought he'd like for less. But he bought me a $40 purse which I needed like I need another head.

When I saw it, I was furious and took it back. He was very hurt and called me cruel and ungrateful. Do you think I was, Abby? I feel so bad about the whole thing.

CHRISTMAS RUINED

DEAR CHRISTMAS RUINED: Since your husband had already bought the gift, you should have accepted it graciously and kept quiet. Then at a later date you could have reopened the issue about setting a limit on Christmas gifts, and sticking with it. I think you owe your husband an apology.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know that I am jealous to a fault, but how would YOU like it if just as you were leaving a party an intoxicated woman grabbed your husband and gave him a long, hard kiss on the lips? My husband made no effort to free himself; he just stood there like a dummy while everyone laughed. This took place New Year's eve, but that's no excuse.

I got mad and ran out to the car without my husband. He followed shortly, full of lame excuses.

The next day I got several telephone calls about it. Everyone criticized ME for being a "poor sport." Nobody said a word about the woman who grabbed my husband and put on an exhibition with him. Was I wrong to be provoked?

STILL PROVOKED

DEAR STILL: Look at it this way. Your husband was victimized by a gal who was full of the spirit of the occasion, and vice versa. I don't blame you for being provoked, but occasionally we have to ignore things that provoke us.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: George and I sent out 203 Christmas cards early in December. We used five-cent stamps on all the sealed envelopes as we had written personal notes on the cards inside. The cards with no writing on them were mailed in unsealed envelopes with four-cent stamps. Okay?

We just received a letter from George's aunt. She wrote, "George, what status does one have to be before he gets a Christmas card from you first class? Yours was the ONLY Christmas card I received with a four-cent stamp on the envelope. Your father used to say, 'If you can't do something right, forget it.'"

Abby, my husband and I are in the army and every penny counts, so I was very hurt by this kind of reaction. Do you suppose others also thought that we were cheap? Or is George's aunt wrong?

HURT

DEAR HURT: George's aunt is more than "wrong." She's unkind and small. Forget her, and stamp out pettiness.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO PALM BEACH PEACH: Anyone who says he is too old for "love stuff" either is—or may as well be.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Tuesday, January 9, 1968

ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Money, possessions are spotlighted. You gain is persistent. Means realize opposition is weaker than you might suspect. Take charge. Stand tall. Adhere to principles.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20): Original ideas succeed. Stress independence of thought, action. Take the lead. Watch personal appearance. Cycle high. Strike while iron is hot. Bring forth creative resources.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Emphasis on how you get along with groups, large numbers of persons. Express views. Stick to them. But apply lessons of diplomacy. Success is indicated.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Your hunches apt to prove accurate. Some things you desire come to pass. Be ready to handle unusual situation involving friends. Could be a mix-up which calls for mediation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on career, ambition, standing in community. Day features opportunity. Question is how you will handle it. Key is to be forthright. Exude confidence. Act like a winner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): News from afar could make this a significant day. Fine for getting thoughts on paper. Communicate. Help others to understand your views. Then great benefits can accrue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Exchange thoughts with one close to you about budget, money, possessions. Find out what you need—separate this from mere desire. Then you are on constructive path.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Accent on marriage, partnership, legal ties. Day to do plenty of listening, observing. Best to permit others to take initiative. Play waiting game.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): You have questions concerning health, work, diet. Today ask them—and obtain answers. Then react in intelligent manner. Key is moderation, calm acceptance of facts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect coincides today with love, romance, creative endeavors. Some changes may be necessary. Obtain hint from SAGITTARIUS message. Stress self-improvement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You receive news which helps promote domestic tranquility. Avoid tendency to be obstinate. Family member deserves benefit of any doubt. Heed this and day will feature happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Stress on new experiences, interests. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Find out answers. Get to heart of matter. Day features messages, calls, opportunity to develop ideas.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you attract people to you with their problems. Would make fine analyst, physician. You are interested in faraway places and much concerned with travel and history. Major adjustment due during upcoming year.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for TAURUS, GEMINI, CANCER. Special word to SAGITTARIUS: be perceptive—don't accept superficial information.

Bridge

Jacoby, Forced, Bids to Game

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "You were in New York working on your backgammon book last fall. I note that you found time to pick up a few of your 10,000 Master Points by attending a sectional event at Grossinger's."

Oswald: "Yes. Gathered 11½ points there. It was a rather small sectional but one of the most delightful I ever attended. The food and service were wonderful, and with every player stopping at the Hotel, we had no trouble getting to the playing rooms from the dining room.

"The director never seemed to feel that he had to adhere to a definite schedule, and everyone liked the general informality. I had such a good time that in line with my new policy of playing only in events where I can really enjoy myself, I plan to return there for the Regional from the 11th to the 14th of this month. Here is one of the most interesting hands from last year's sectional."

Jim: "I assume you were South. That four spade bid looks like your style."

Oswald: "Actually the dummy disappointed me. I had hoped to find four spades. The play wasn't tough in any event."

Jim: "You ruffed the heart opening and must have had quite a problem at trick two. Assume that you led a club to your jack."

Oswald: "Exactly. West was in with the king and could do nothing to beat me. Actually, he led a second heart. I ruffed in dummy, discarded my last two hearts on the ace and queen of clubs and led dummy's queen of trumps. East played his ace and put me back in dummy with a diamond. I led and ruffed a fourth club; played my king of trumps and conceded a trick to the jack."

Jim: "Simple indeed. Was your score a top?"

Oswald: "Not quite — only 11½ out of a possible 12."

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the distinction between purebred horses and thoroughbred horses?

A—A purebred horse may be of any breed, as long as its parents also belong to that breed. A thoroughbred is a specific breed of horse. Every thoroughbred is necessarily a purebred horse; but many purebred horses are not thoroughbreds.

* * *

Q—How do sea snails move?

A—By means of almost invisible waves of muscular movement which pass along the length of the foot and cause it to move forward.

* * *

Q—What island is termed the "Pearl of the Antilles"?

A—Cuba.

Q—Are bears found in South America?

A—The Andean black bear or spectacled bear is the only bear found in South America. It owes its name to the fawn-colored ring that encircles each eye, giving a rather fanciful resemblance to eyeglasses.

* * *

Q—In World War II, when did the Soviet Union declare war on Japan?

A—On Aug. 8, 1945, seven days before the Japanese agreed to unconditional surrender.

misogamist (mi-SOG-uh-mist)
a person who hates marriage

The good-looking bachelor, a staunch misogamist, would always become irritated when someone suggested he should marry.

The cynical pharmacist, a man whose reputation as a misogamist was well known, declared that marriage was the same as living in a prison.

No matter what attempts were made to change his thinking, the night porter would always remain a confirmed misogamist.

Jacoby, Forced, Bids to Game

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "You were in New York working on your backgammon book last fall. I note that you found time to pick up a few of your 10,000 Master Points by attending a sectional event at Grossinger's."

Oswald: "Yes. Gathered 11½ points there. It was a rather small sectional but one of the most delightful I ever attended. The food and service were wonderful, and with every player stopping at the Hotel, we had no trouble getting to the playing rooms from the dining room.

"The director never seemed to feel that he had to adhere to a definite schedule, and everyone liked the general informality. I had such a good time that in line with my new policy of playing only in events where I can really enjoy myself, I plan to return there for the Regional from the 11th to the 14th of this month. Here is one of the most interesting hands from last year's sectional."

Jim: "I assume you were South. That four spade bid looks like your style."

Oswald: "Actually the dummy disappointed me. I had hoped to find four spades. The play wasn't tough in any event."

Jim: "You ruffed the heart opening and must have had quite a problem at trick two. Assume that you led a club to your jack."

Oswald: "Exactly. West was in with the king and could do nothing to beat me. Actually, he led a second heart. I ruffed in dummy, discarded my last two hearts on the ace and queen of clubs and led dummy's queen of trumps. East played his ace and put me back in dummy with a diamond. I led and ruffed a fourth club; played my king of trumps and conceded a trick to the jack."

Jim: "Simple indeed. Was your score a top?"

Oswald: "Not quite — only 11½ out of a possible 12."

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the distinction between purebred horses and thoroughbred horses?

A—A purebred horse may be of any breed, as long as its parents also belong to that breed. A thoroughbred is a specific breed of horse. Every thoroughbred is necessarily a purebred horse; but many purebred horses are not thoroughbreds.

* * *

Q—How do sea snails move?

A—By means of almost invisible waves of muscular movement which pass along the length of the foot and cause it to move forward.

* * *

Q—What island is termed the "Pearl of the Antilles"?

A—Cuba.

Q—Are bears found in South America?

A—The Andean black bear or spectacled bear is the only bear found in South America. It owes its name to the fawn-colored ring that encircles each eye, giving a rather fanciful resemblance to eyeglasses.

* * *

Q—In World War II, when did the Soviet Union declare war on Japan?

A—On Aug. 8, 1945, seven days before the Japanese agreed to unconditional surrender.

Dr. Jekyll Much Too Long

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Louis Stevenson's familiar horror story, "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," proved to be fairly bland and much, much too long as an ABC Sunday night special.

There was this doctor, a quiet fellow dedicated to his laboratory filled with foaming beakers and caged mice. In the course of his experiments, he drinks a chemical portion. Thus he becomes the first acid head on a bad trip.

Dr. Jekyll, in contemporary jargon, freaks out and becomes Mr. Hyde. But the switching back and forth between the good doctor and the evil Hyde went on for 21 hours during which he killed so many people it became a crashing bore.

Better Told Before

Jack Palance played the Jekyll-Hyde character with a satanic makeup in the latter role and a British accent in the former. The high point of his performance seemed to come when he twisted and contorted himself after drinking the potion that turned him into Hyde.

The story was set in Victorian London, and it was a very handsome production. But it was an oft-told tale that has been better told before.

NBC's Saturday special on Dr. Christiaan Barnard and his historic heart surgery was timely and enlightening, in spite of the inability of the network to use much material relatimg to the recent heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg.

The focus of the hour program was primarily on the South African doctor, who talked of his boyhood as the son of a missionary, and of his studies at the University of Minnesota where he did odd jobs to make ends meet.

Barnard's description, in understandable terms, of his first human heart transplant was obviously made while the patient was still alive, but it was particularly effective since he told about his own emotions during the operation. The program's difficulty was that the only operation pictures it could show was that of open heart surgery performed by Barnard and his team.

Radical Programming

ABC, in a radical programming innovation, plans to launch a 90-minute variety program on weekday mornings. The program, which will start on March 4 at 10:30 a.m. EST, will star Dick Cavett, a comedy writer turned performer, one of the younger funnymen. It is hoped that Cavett and his understated humor will attract the young housewife audience.

ABC is expected to drop at least one of the programs now occupying the time spot to be filled by "This Morning," and move at least one to an afternoon spot.

Recommended tonight: "Sharks," ABC, 7.30-8.30 EST, first of a series of undersea documentaries by explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau.

The doctor examined the shins of his husky male patient with a puzzled look. They were badly dented and discolored.

Doctor Blank—I suppose you are an addict of hockey or soccer?

Mr. Smith—Neither, doc, all I play is bridge.

Most neighbors because they say, "Good morning," to you think it entitles them to the privilege of letting their dogs mess up your lawn and ruin your flower beds.

Grandpa took the kids to a Saturday-afternoon cowboy movie. The box-office window listed only the children's admission price.

Grandpa Jones—How much for adults?

Miss Lee (the cashier) — If you can stand it, man, you're in for free.

* * *

Now it comes out—after all these years: Lulu has just confessed that she wanted to be a school teacher, but she couldn't spell. So she became a secretary.

* * *

Mrs. Cross (the customer)—This clock I bought from you loses 15 minutes every hour.

Answered the clerk:

Mr. Case—Didn't you see the sign '25 per cent off' when you bought it?

* * *

Wife (to bragging hubby)—Why do you always vary the size of the fish you've caught for different listeners?

Husband — Well, I never tell a man more than he'll believe.

There is nothing wrong about having nothing to say; just don't say it out loud.

Dr. Jekyll Much Too Long

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Louis Stevenson's familiar horror story, "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," proved to be fairly bland and much, much too long as an ABC Sunday night special.

There was this doctor, a quiet fellow dedicated to his laboratory filled with foaming beakers and caged mice. In the course of his experiments, he drinks a chemical portion. Thus he becomes the first acid head on a bad trip.

Dr. Jekyll, in contemporary jargon, freaks out and becomes Mr. Hyde. But the switching back and forth between the good doctor and the evil Hyde went on for 21 hours during which he killed so many people it became a crashing bore.

Better Told Before

Jack Palance played the Jekyll-Hyde character with a satanic makeup in the latter role and a British accent in the former. The high point of his performance seemed to come when he twisted and contorted himself after drinking the potion that turned him into Hyde.

The story was set in Victorian London, and it was a very handsome production. But it was an oft-told tale that has been better told before.

NBC's Saturday special on Dr. Christiaan Barnard and his historic heart surgery was timely and enlightening, in spite of the inability of the network to use much material relatimg to the recent heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg.

The focus of the hour program was primarily on the South African doctor, who talked of his boyhood as the son of a missionary, and of his studies at the University of Minnesota where he did odd jobs to make ends meet.

Barnard's description, in understandable terms, of his first human heart transplant was obviously made while the patient was still alive, but it was particularly effective since he told about his own emotions during the operation. The program's difficulty was that the only operation pictures it could show was that of open heart surgery performed by Barnard and his team.

Radical Programming

ABC, in a radical programming innovation, plans to launch a 90-minute variety program on weekday mornings. The program, which will start on March 4 at 10:30 a.m. EST, will star Dick Cavett, a comedy writer turned performer, one of the younger funnymen. It is hoped that Cavett and his understated humor will attract the young housewife audience.

ABC is expected to drop at least one of the programs now occupying the time spot to be filled by "This Morning," and move at least one to an afternoon spot.

Recommended tonight: "Sharks," ABC, 7.30-8.30 EST, first of a series of undersea documentaries by explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau.

UCCC Head Praises New Dean of Students

Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of Ulster County Community College, today said he feels that Robert J. Markes, the newly appointed Dean of Students at UCCC, will make an "outstanding contributon to the students, the faculty and the college."

The College's Board of Trustee appointed Markes, presently associate snperintendent of schools for the Kingston Consolidated School System, to the post, effective June 1.

"After a search among 35 candidates," said Erbstein, "the college is most pleased to have acquired Markes, who has exhibited noteworthy, mature leadership in education for 20 years."

Markes will succeed Donald Crout, who resigned last year to become dean of students at Worcester Junior College in Massachusetts.

Markes' experience as an educator started in September, 1948, as a social studies teacher at Middletown High School. From 1960 to 1962 he was a guidance counselor in that system, and he was dean of student personnel at Middletown High School from 1962 to 1963.

From 1963 to the present, Markes has been associated with the Kingston Consolidated School System, first as vice-principal of the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School and for the past two years as associtee superintendent.

Markes has his bachelor's degree from Union College, his master's degree from the State University College at New Paltz, and presently is completing his studies for a doctorate in administration and supervision at New York University. He also in 1960 was a John Hay fellow at Williams College where he studied humanities.

Hurley Resident

Married and the father of five children, Markes resides in Hurley.

He is a member of the Mid-Atlantic Association for School, College and University Staffing, ASCD, and the Kingston Rotary Club.

Social Security Hits Pay Checks

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of Americans are trying to get along on a bit less money this week as they recover slowly from the shock of seeing their first pay check of 1968 — with a big chunk of cash deducted for Social Security.

This is a yearly surprise for many workers, although it shouldn't be. Social Security deductions have been with us for three decades now and will become even larger in the future. But some of us like to live a little unrealistically. We forget.

Back in the fall or winter, for example, the pay of many workers finally totaled more than $6,600 for the year. Thereafter they made no further Social Security payments for the rest of the year.

For many of these workers the paycheck they received last Friday was the first in several months on which deductions had been made. And during this interim they had adjusted to a higher standard of spending.

No more educational shock could have befallen these workers, especially following the Christmas season of gifts, for it forced them to realize that Social Security is purchased with labor rather than bestowed from Washington or showered from the sky.

The payments for 24 million recipients of Social Security are the taxes of 78 million workers. As benefits increase this year, so also will the taxes with which to pay them. These benefits are purchased.

Last year Americans paid 4.4 per cent of their first $6,600 in pay for Social Security and medicare, meaning the maximum payment was $290.40 each from employe and employer, or a total of $580.80.

In 1968 the tax still will be 4.4 per cent, but it will apply to $7,800 in pay, if that much is earned, meaning that the top deduction will be $343.20 each from employer and worker.

As the taxes of workers go up this year, the benefits for widows, disabled and retired will rise also, by 13 per cent. A retiree receiving $124.40 a month now, for example, will receive $140.40 from March on.

To fund these increases, American workers are going to find themselves taxed more and more. Next year the deduction from both worker and employer will rise to $374.40 and by 1987 to $460.20.

These sums may not look large compared with wages earned, but they are many times the figures foreseen back in 1937, when Social Security came into being. As recently as 1949 the maximum deduction was $30. Since then it has multiplied almost 10 times, to $45 in 1950, $144 10 years later and, rising steadily, to nearly $100 more in 1968.

During this time Social Security as a levy has grown to represent 17 per cent of all federal taxes collected, second in size only to the income tax itself. In view of criticism and opposition, this is an amazing growth.

As President Johnson said in his statement a week ago, "Social Security has become so important to our lives, it is hard to remember that when it was first proposed it was bitterly attacked."

These attacks were bitter indeed, but evidence that much has changed is the fact that additions to Social Security in the past 30 months have exceeded those original benefits of 1937, and have had support of some former enemies.

Nevertheless, there is a great liklihood that America will see even more changes and additions in its benefits system, perhaps even radical ones, well before the turn of the century. As Johnson observed, "The welfare system today pleases no one."

As a result, a study committee will hold its first meetings this month to consider overhauling the entire system. In the opinion of some, they could begin by disassociating Social Security from the word welfare, a term that became indelibly tarnished by the 1930s, when so many needed a dole.

Social Security today is anything but a handout, at least in the vast majority of cases. It is well earned, dearly paid for and greatly deserved by most recipients.

Bowles Trip Could Be Waste of Time

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — U.S. presidential envoy Chester Bowles arrived today to seek Prince Norodom Sihanouk's help in keeping North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces from using Cambodia as a sanctuary. But the Cambodian chief of state in effect told a news conference the American ambassador's mission was doomed.

Sihanouk told newsmen Sunday he would see Bowles, the U.S. ambassador to India. But he suggested that the American envoy would do better to spend his time touring the famous temple ruins at Angkor.

American sources in New Delhi said Bowles would concentrate on the question of Communist Vietnamese troops taking sanctuary in Cambodian border areas. He was expected to seek tacit agreement from Sihanouk to permit pursuit by U.S. forces of Communist troops who attack them in Vietnam and then retreat into Cambodia.

In response to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Sihanouk said Saturday that "we would not intervene militarily if a fight between Americans and infiltrated Vietnamese, therefore one as much at fault as the other, took place in the outlying and uninhabited regions of our territory."

Would Condem Both

But the prince told the news conference Sunday he would not allow U.S. forces to pursue the Viet Cong into Cambodia and would condemn both sides if they clashed on his soil.

Sihanouk said he would tell Bowles there is "no possibility of negotiating the right of pursuit" of Communist forces into Cambodia.

The prince also said he would tell Bowles the United States should follow France's example in Algeria and "rid yourself of the Saigon parasites.' 'He said he would suggest that the United States withdraw its troops, adding: "This would be pretty good for you on the international stage. It will give you immense prestige."

Sihanouk then attacked President Johnson, saying he would "never lick the boots of that Johnson."

"If he wants to talk, he will come to my house," he said.

Sihanouk described as "utterly fantastic" press reports that Johnson had told Bowles to ask the prince for "definite information" on Hanoi's desire for peace and reports the North Vietnamese had inquired about the availability of Phnom Penh, Vientiane and Rangoon as sites for preliminary peace talks.

"If some day one or the other of them (North Vietnam or the United States) wishes to honor Phnom Penh with their confidences, and wishes to come here to discuss for example the evacuation of the Americans from Indochina, I will be absolutely ready to open up," he said.

"But how could I encourage Mr. Bowles in this direction if the other side gives no encouragement whatever and does not accept?

No Go-Between

He also said that he would not act as a go between to secure the exchange of American and Communist prisoners of war.

Bowles flew from New Delhi to Bangkok by commercial airliner, then took a U.S. Air Force plane to Phnom Penh. He was welcomed by Mme. Chin Renne, the minister of information; the Foreign Ministry director of protocol, and Australian Ambassador Noel S. Deschamps. Australia has looked after U.S. interests in Cambodia since Prince Sihanouk broke diplomatic relations with Washington in May 1965.

The .prince said earlier he would see Bowles on Wednesday.

Bowles was expected to ask Sihanouk's cooperation in rejuvenation of the International Control Commission for Cambodia so it can serve as an effective border watcher.

Western sources in Phnom Penh believe that Sihanouk will be unenthusiastic about discussing the commission.

The commission cannot make investigations unless the Cambodian government asks it to, and it is believed Sihanouk might be reluctant to make such requests. The sources pointed out that after a large Communist camp was found inside Cambodia by newsmen last Nov. 15, the Cambodian government did not put in a request for a commission investigation until Dec. 1.

Four Injured In City Crash

Four persons were injured Saturday following a three-car collision on Broadway in which one car's operator was charged with driving while intoxicated, police report.

Taken to Kingston Hospital were Michael Gallagher, 17, of Andrew Street and his passenger, Jo Ann Cashdollar of Lake Katrine. Both complained of arm and leg injuries. A third party in the Gallagher auto, Betty Kruszenski of 419 Delaware Avenue, said she would consult her own physician.

The fourth person injured, Patrolman George Deyo of 290 Hasbrouck Avenue, also said he would seek private treatment, police noted.

Charged with driving while intoxicated, failing to keep right and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle is Leonard Selzer, 46, of 60 Van Buren Street. He appeared in city court today and his case adjourned until Thursday. He is presently free on $100 bail.

According to police, Selzar, traveling north on Broadway, collided with the Gallagher car proceeding south. Police said the impact of the crash pushed the Gallagher car into a parked police patrol.

The mishap occurred at 11 p. m.

Creek Rescue Frees Dog but To No Avail

Police and the SPCA joined forces this morning to rescue a little dog frozen to the ice behind Ray's Riverside Restaurant near the Rondout Creek.

However, the dog, who had been trapped on the ice several hours, will have to be put to sleep, the SPCA (Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) disclosed.

According to reports, Arnold Adams of Mt. Marion crawled by use of a ladder to where the dog was struck and freed the animal. Adams said the dog's hind quarters were submerged and his ears and front paws frozen fast to the ice. The dog was conscious but in deep shock, Adams said.

Police assisted in the rescue operation.

Good Indication

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts residents apparently are smoking less and drinking more, tax collections by the state in the first five months of fiscal 1968 indicated.

Tax Commissioner Cleo F. Jaillet reported collecting $18.5 million in taxes on alcoholic beverages from July 1 through Nov. 30, compared to $16.8 million in 1967. Cigarette tax payments totaled $25.3 million in the five months, compared to $28.3 million in a similar period last year.

Cardinal Ottaviani Resigns From Post

VATICAN CITY (AP) Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, the most powerful ultra-conservative in the Roman Catholic Church, has resigned from the church's central administration and Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation, the Vatican announced today.

The Pope named Franjo Cardinal Seper of Yugoslavia, 62, to replace the 77-year-old Cardinal Ottaviani as secretary for the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office and the most powerful single agency in the Vatican Curia, the church's central administration.

The Holy Office was a legacy of the Inquisition. Cardinal Ottaviani once described himself as a policeman who guarded traditional doctrine and theology.

In dramatic fashion it signified the move of the half-billion-member church away from rigid conservatism toward new experiments in modernism and changing relations with Communist countries.

Now nearly blind, the cardinal resigned after years of conflict with liberal prelates pressing for modernization and reform in the church. Pope Paul reportedly wanted Cardinal Ottaviani to quit after he expressed his desire for all prelates over the age of 75 to offer their resignation, but it was said that the cardinal refused.

The cardinal and his super-secret Holy Office were chief targets of the progressives during the 1962-65 Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The advocates of change won many important victories. They succeeded in ending the index of forbidden books, in winning more open trial procedures for clerics called on the carpet for unorthodox writings, and in changing the name of the Holy Office.

But the fight continued behind the scenes with Cardinal Ottaviani fighting a rearguard action against changes he considered were undermining the church.

Jules Basevant

CHALON - SUR - SAONE, France (AP) — Jules Basevant, former president of the International Court of Justice at The Hague, died Saturday. Basevant, 90, was a member of the French delegation to the Versailles peace treaty and later participated in work at the League of Nations.

Seven Injured In 3 Weekend Auto Mishaps

Seven persons were injured and a motorist was cited for failure to keep to the right as the result of weekend traffic accidents investigated by Kingston State Police.

Frederick G. Clark, of Utica, was driving his 1965 sedan north on Route 209 south of Stone Ridge, Town of Marbletown, at 1:10 p. m. Sunday when the vehicle left the pavement, veered into a ditch and his a rock, according to troopers. Injured were, Theresa Diana, 55, of Utica, bruises of the left leg; Sadie Clark, 51, possible broken ankle and bruises; Louis Diana, 63, bruises.

At 11:05 p. m. Sunday, John Mehalak, 28, of Albany, was traveling north on Old Kings Highway north of the Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties, when his car failed to make a left curve and skidded into a utility pole. Troopers J. A. Fitzgerald and Norman Kilfoyle reported he was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service and treated for chest injuries and abrasions of the left hand. The 1967 sedan was badly damaged.

Cars driven by Christfried W. Wirths, 24, of Mount Marion, and Eugene Matuzak, 24, of Glasco, were invplved in a collision at 3:45 a. m. Sunday on Route 9W near Glenerie. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance were Wirths, who received lacerations of the forehead; Matuzak, who sustained facial cuts and abrasions of the head, and Margaret Matuzak, 22, who suffered lacerations and abrasions. Trooper R. O. Reisberg reported Wirths was driving south and reportedly crossed into the opposite lane where the crash occurred. He was cited for failure to keep to the right.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases – to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.

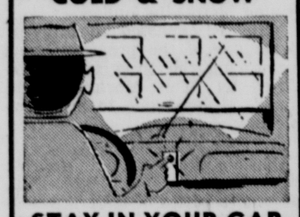

The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

As the taxes of workers go up this year, the benefits for widows, disabled and retired will rise also, by 13 per cent. A retiree receiving $124.40 a month now, for example, will receive $140.40 from March on.

To fund these increases, American workers are going to find themselves taxed more and more. Next year the deduction from both worker and employer will rise to $374.40 and by 1987 to $460.20.

These sums may not look large compared with wages earned, but they are many times the figures foreseen back in 1937, when Social Security came into being. As recently as 1949 the maximum deduction was $30. Since then it has multiplied almost 10 times, to $45 in 1950, $144 10 years later and, rising steadily, to nearly $100 more in 1968.

During this time Social Security as a levy has grown to represent 17 per cent of all federal taxes collected, second in size only to the income tax itself. In view of criticism and opposition, this is an amazing growth.

As President Johnson said in his statement a week ago, "Social Security has become so important to our lives, it is hard to remember that when it was first proposed it was bitterly attacked."

These attacks were bitter indeed, but evidence that much has changed is the fact that additions to Social Security in the past 30 months have exceeded those original benefits of 1937, and have had support of some former enemies.

Nevertheless, there is a great liklihood that America will see even more changes and additions in its benefits system, perhaps even radical ones, well before the turn of the century. As Johnson observed, "The welfare system today pleases no one."

As a result, a study committee will hold its first meetings this month to consider overhauling the entire system. In the opinion of some, they could begin by disassociating Social Security from the word welfare, a term that became indelibly tarnished by the 1930s, when so many needed a dole.

Social Security today is anything but a handout, at least in the vast majority of cases. It is well earned, dearly paid for and greatly deserved by most recipients.

Bowles Trip Could Be Waste of Time

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — U.S. presidential envoy Chester Bowles arrived today to seek Prince Norodom Sihanouk's help in keeping North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces from using Cambodia as a sanctuary. But the Cambodian chief of state in effect told a news conference the American ambassador's mission was doomed.

Sihanouk told newsmen Sunday he would see Bowles, the U.S. ambassador to India. But he suggested that the American envoy would do better to spend his time touring the famous temple ruins at Angkor.

American sources in New Delhi said Bowles would concentrate on the question of Communist Vietnamese troops taking sanctuary in Cambodian border areas. He was expected to seek tacit agreement from Sihanouk to permit pursuit by U.S. forces of Communist troops who attack them in Vietnam and then retreat into Cambodia.

In response to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Sihanouk said Saturday that "we would not intervene militarily if a fight between Americans and infiltrated Vietnamese, therefore one as much at fault as the other, took place in the outlying and uninhabited regions of our territory."

Would Condem Both

But the prince told the news conference Sunday he would not allow U.S. forces to pursue the Viet Cong into Cambodia and would condemn both sides if they clashed on his soil.

Sihanouk said he would tell Bowles there is "no possibility of negotiating the right of pursuit" of Communist forces into Cambodia.

The prince also said he would tell Bowles the United States should follow France's example in Algeria and "rid yourself of the Saigon parasites.' 'He said he would suggest that the United States withdraw its troops, adding: "This would be pretty good for you on the international stage. It will give you immense prestige."

Sihanouk then attacked President Johnson, saying he would "never lick the boots of that Johnson."

"If he wants to talk, he will come to my house," he said.

Sihanouk described as "utterly fantastic" press reports that Johnson had told Bowles to ask the prince for "definite information" on Hanoi's desire for peace and reports the North Vietnamese had inquired about the availability of Phnom Penh, Vientiane and Rangoon as sites for preliminary peace talks.

"If some day one or the other of them (North Vietnam or the United States) wishes to honor Phnom Penh with their confidences, and wishes to come here to discuss for example the evacuation of the Americans from Indochina, I will be absolutely ready to open up," he said.

"But how could I encourage Mr. Bowles in this direction if the other side gives no encouragement whatever and does not accept?

No Go-Between

He also said that he would not act as a go between to secure the exchange of American and Communist prisoners of war.

Bowles flew from New Delhi to Bangkok by commercial airliner, then took a U.S. Air Force plane to Phnom Penh. He was welcomed by Mme. Chin Renne, the minister of information; the Foreign Ministry director of protocol, and Australian Ambassador Noel S. Deschamps. Australia has looked after U.S. interests in Cambodia since Prince Sihanouk broke diplomatic relations with Washington in May 1965.

The prince said earlier he would see Bowles on Wednesday.

Bowles was expected to ask Sihanouk's cooperation in rejuvenation of the International Control Commission for Cambodia so it can serve as an effective border watcher.

Western sources in Phnom Penh believe that Sihanouk will be unenthusiastic about discussing the commission.

The commission cannot make investigations unless the Cambodian government asks it to, and it is believed Sihanouk might be reluctant to make such requests. The sources pointed out that after a large Communist camp was found inside Cambodia by newsmen last Nov. 15, the Cambodian government did not put in a request for a commission investigation until Dec. 1.

Four Injured In City Crash

Four persons were injured Saturday following a three-car collision on Broadway in which one car's operator was charged with driving while intoxicated, police report.

Taken to Kingston Hospital were Michael Gallagher, 17, of Andrew Street and his passenger, Jo Ann Cashdollar of Lake Katrine. Both complained of arm and leg injuries. A third party in the Gallagher auto, Betty Kruszenski of 419 Delaware Avenue, said she would consult her own physician.

The fourth person injured, Patrolman George Deyo of 290 Hasbrouck Avenue, also said he would seek private treatment, police noted.

Charged with driving while intoxicated, failing to keep right and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle is Leonard Selzer, 46, of 60 Van Buren Street. He appeared in city court today and his case adjourned until Thursday. He is presently free on $100 bail.

According to police, Selzar, traveling north on Broadway, collided with the Gallagher car proceeding south. Police said the impact of the crash pushed the Gallagher car into a parked police patrol.

The mishap occurred at 11 p. m.

Creek Rescue Frees Dog but To No Avail

Police and the SPCA joined forces this morning to rescue a little dog frozen to the ice behind Ray's Riverside Restaurant near the Rondout Creek.

However, the dog, who had been trapped on the ice several hours, will have to be put to sleep, the SPCA (Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) disclosed.

According to reports, Arnold Adams of Mt. Marion crawled by use of a ladder to where the dog was struck and freed the animal. Adams said the dog's hind quarters were submerged and his ears and front paws frozen fast to the ice. The dog was conscious but in deep shock, Adams said.

Police assisted in the rescue operation.

Good Indication

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts residents apparently are smoking less and drinking more, tax collections by the state in the first five months of fiscal 1968 indicated.

Tax Commissioner Cleo F. Jaillet reported collecting $18.5 million in taxes on alcoholic beverages from July 1 through Nov. 30, compared to $16.8 million in 1967. Cigarette tax payments totaled $25.3 million in the five months, compared to $28.3 million in a similar period last year.

Cardinal Ottaviani Resigns From Post

VATICAN CITY (AP) Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, the most powerful ultra-conservative in the Roman Catholic Church, has resigned from the church's central administration and Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation, the Vatican announced today.

The Pope named Franjo Cardinal Seper of Yugoslavia, 62, to replace the 77-year-old Cardinal Ottaviani as secretary for the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office and the most powerful single agency in the Vatican Curia, the church's central administration.

The Holy Office was a legacy of the Inquisition. Cardinal Ottaviani once described himself as a policeman who guarded traditional doctrine and theology.

The retirement of Cardinal Ottaviani and his replacement by a prelate from a Communist country that once imprisoned a Catholic cardinal marked a major turning point.

In dramatic fashion it signified the move of the half-billion-member church away from rigid conservatism toward new experiments in modernism and changing relations with Communist countries.

Now nearly blind, the cardinal resigned after years of conflict with liberal prelates pressing for modernization and reform in the church. Pope Paul reportedly wanted Cardinal Ottaviani to quit after he expressed his desire for all prelates over the age of 75 to offer their resignation, but it was said that the cardinal refused.

The cardinal and his super-secret Holy Office were chief targets of the progressives during the 1962-65 Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The advocates of change won many important victories. They succeeded in ending the index of forbidden books, in winning more open trial procedures for clerics called on the carpet for unorthodox writings, and in changing the name of the Holy Office.

But the fight continued behind the scenes with Cardinal Ottaviani fighting a rearguard action against changes he considered were undermining the church.

Seven Injured In 3 Weekend Auto Mishaps

Seven persons were injured and a motorist was cited for failure to keep to the right as the result of weekend traffic accidents investigated by Kingston State Police.

Frederick G. Clark, of Utica, was driving his 1965 sedan north on Route 209 south of Stone Ridge, Town of Marbletown, at 1:10 p. m. Sunday when the vehicle left the pavement, veered into a ditch and his a rock, according to troopers. Injured were, Theresa Diana, 55, of Utica, bruises of the left leg; Sadie Clark, 51, possible broken ankle and bruises; Louis Diana, 63, bruises.

At 11:05 p. m. Sunday, John Mehalak, 28, of Albany, was traveling north on Old Kings Highway north of the Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties, when his car failed to make a left curve and skidded into a utility pole. Troopers J. A. Fitzgerald and Norman Kilfoyle reported he was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service and treated for chest injuries and abrasions of the left hand. The 1967 sedan was badly damaged.

Cars driven by Christfried W. Wirths, 24, of Mount Marion, and Eugene Matuzak, 24, of Glasco, were involved in a collision at 3:45 a. m. Sunday on Route 9W near Glenerie. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance were Wirths, who received lacerations of the forehead; Matuzak, who sustained facial cuts and abrasions of the head, and Margaret Matuzak, 22, who suffered lacerations and abrasions. Trooper R. O. Reisberg reported Wirths was driving south and reportedly crossed into the opposite lane where the crash occurred. He was cited for failure to keep to the right.

Jules Basevant

CHALON - SUR - SAONE, France (AP) — Jules Basevant, former president of the International Court of Justice at The Hague, died Saturday. Basevant, 90, was a member of the French delegation to the Versailles peace treaty and later participated in work at the League of Nations.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases – to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.

The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.
